Red China Blasts Russia As Showdown Talks Begin

By HENRY SHAPIRO

MOSCOW (UPI) — Red China announced a bitter protest against the Soviet Union today, increasing the hostility between the two Communist giants just hours before the scheduled start of their showdown ideological talks.

The protest came on top of a flurry of vitriolic charges and counter-charges between Moscow and Peking, but both sides said they would go on with the discussions that could result in an historic split of the Communist world.

The negotiations, called originally to restore peace to the Communist camp, were scheduled to open in Moscow today. There was no official word, however, on exactly when or where they would be held.

Reports from the New China News Agency, monitored in Tokyo, said the Chinese delegation left Peking for Moscow only today by plane. The reports gave no estimated time of arrival.

A Moscow airport spokesman said the plane carrying the Chinese was reported to have stopped in the Siberian city of Omsk en route to Moscow.

The Chinese apparently delayed the departure of their delegation to the last possible moment. There had been some speculation they might cancel or postpone the talks, especially after a new attack on Peking's position Thursday by the Soviet Communist party.

The latest Chinese protest, as reported by the New China News Agency, accused the Russians of creating "new obstacles" to the "unity" talks on ideological and political differences.

The protest was in connection with the recent expulsion of three Chinese diplomats and two students from the Soviet Union for distributing copies of a Chinese letter strongly condemning the Kremlin's position in the dispute. The Kremlin refused to publish the letter.

By United Press International

From all reports, it was a normal Thursday in Colorado— for the 4th of July.

—Police were swamped with fire cracker complaints.

—Bells rang loudly, and flags hung proudly.

—Five were killed in highway accidents, and two drowned.

—Skies lighted up with fireworks and bands played.

—Concerts, rodeos and other sporting events thrilled spectators.

—People picnicked.

Police said illegal firecracker-throwers were cagier than usual, and that none were arrested. At least one of them should have been. Mrs. Josephine Stanlye, 68, told police she received a minor burn as one large explosive, thrown from a passing car, blew up near her home in Denver.

Church bells, carillons and chimes were heard across the state at 11 a.m., carrying out a request of President Kennedy and Gov. John Love.

The Colorado governor spent the 187th anniversary of the nation's independence at Meeker, watching a re-enactment of the Meeker Massacre and a rodeo.

The accident rate for a holiday was low, according to the Colorado State Patrol, which was busy keeping an eye on jam-packed mountain highways. The five deaths recorded since the weekend began at 6 p.m. Wednesday boosted the yearly fatality toll to 239—47 more than the number dead on July 5 last year.

A soldier drowned while boating, a boy drowned while swimming in a gravel pit.

Included in a slug of fireworks displays was the 25th annual blowout of the American Legion's "Salute to America" at the University of Denver stadium, and band concerts and parades were reported across the state.

Sports fans got to watch a high-speed race up the winding Pikes Peak Highway near Colorado Springs—and also saw the Denver Bears' nine-game baseball winning streak ended by the Portland Beavers—who chewed off two wins in a twi-night double header at Bears Stadium. Tote-Gotes and motorscooters raced and scrambled at Glenwood Springs.

The Fourth was not without its celebrities. Former President and Mrs. Dwight Eisenhower arrived in Denver for six days of rest and relaxation, and Miss Sally Guinn, "Miss Colorado of 1963," greeted them.

It was cloudy in much of the state, but rain was at a minimum and picnickers had little to complain about, except maybe the traffic and the ticks.

One thing didn't happen that was planned. East Tincup, a half-dismantled amusement park west of Denver, didn't open.

Pete Smythe, president of the company, had projected July 4th as the opening date for the park, after it was partially dismantled by the former owner, who moved elsewhere. Smythe, however, said Thursday the date he set was too soon. "This time we're going to do it right and add some new things." He said the new opening date would be May 30, 1964.

And in Denver, two displays summed up the day. One was a gigantic firecracker—about a half-story high—hanging from a partially finished skyscraper in the downtown section.

The other consisted of a flag flying from every window in the State Capitol Building.

VOTE DROPS

LONDON (AP)—Britain's ruling Conservative party suffered sharp vote decreases in two special elections to fill vacancies in the House of Commons Thursday. Labor candidates won both seats.

Rehearsal Held For 'Drafting' Of Goldwater

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The national Draft Goldwater Committee staged a dress rehearsal for the 1964 Republican convention Thursday night with dancing placards, small - scale demonstrations and chants of "We want Barry."

The job ahead is to convince Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona that he has grass roots support convertible into delegate strength to win the GOP presidential nomination at San Francisco next July.

Goldwater admirers from many states assembled in the National Guard Armory to cheer every mention of their conservative hero and to give Bronx cheers to President Kennedy and other New Frontier officials.

When the meeting began, police estimated the crowd at more than 7,000. Peter O'Donnell, Texas Republican chairman and head of the draft movement, later told the audience that the official estimate had been increased to 9,000.

Homestake Work Ground-Breaking Scheduled July 27

Colorado Springs city officials will participate July 27 in ground-breaking ceremonies for the mammoth Homestake Water Project near Leadville.

The $58-million dollar project will eventually bring western slope water to Colorado Springs and Aurora. The groundbreaking event will be at the site of the 5½-mile water diversion tunnel, eight miles west of Leadville.

An 9.5-foot bore will be driven from Turquoise Lake northwest of Leadville across to Homestake Lake. The W. A. Smith Construction Company of Kansas City and Quad Construction, Inc., of Golden bid $4,267,000 to drive the tunnel thru the mountains. The bid is expected to be formally accepted by the Colorado Springs City Council on Tuesday.

An access road to the western portal of the dam site at Homestake Lake is being built at a cost of $277,377 by E. J. Rippey and Sons of Newcastle. The road, to run from Gold Park to Home-

Carson Soldier Drowning Victim At Monument Lake

A Ft. Carson soldier died Thursday in a drowning accident at Monument Lake.

Richard T. Robinson, 21, tumbled into the water as he attempted to replace a sheared pin in the propeller of his "float".

On board with him at the time was a lifeguard at the lake, Perry E. McIntosh, who also fell into the water but who was unable to save the solider.

Robinson's body was recovered in 30 feet of water about an hour and a half after he sank in the lake. The sheriff's office said grappling hooks were used to drag the lake and recover the body.

Investigating officers said Robinson and three other men had gone to the lake for the afternoon and had rented the float-boat at about 2 p.m.

At about 5:30 p.m. McIntosh asked Robinson to ferry him across the lake to check on an overdue rented boat. As the boat progressed across the lake, a pin holding the propeller on was sheared off.

McIntosh told investigating officers Robinson leaned over the boat in an attempt to replace the pin and tumbled into the water. The lifeguard went into the water and as he attempted to push the man into the float, both went under. Both were fully clothed.

McIntosh surfaced and was pulled aboard another boat which was passing by, but Robinson did not resurface.

Robinson was attached to Company D, 7th Engineering battalion, 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized) at Ft. Carson.

The body was taken to Swan Funeral Home where an autopsy was to be performed.

Five More Days Of Hot Weather Seen for State

By United Press International

The U.S. Weather Bureau today predicted five more days of hot weather for Colorado with only widely scattered rainfall.

Temperatures were forecast to be 6-10 degrees above normal in eastern Colorado and 3-6 degrees above normal in western Colorado. High afternoon temperatures were expected to vary from 85 to 95 on the Western Slope and 90 to 100 on the eastern side of the mountains.

Partly cloudy skies covered Colorado today and a few showers or thunderstorms were forecast.

The low early today was 34 at Fraser. High Thursday was 101 at Lamar.

Racial Demonstrations Held in Eight U.S. Cities

By United Press International

About 400 National Guardsmen enforcing limited martial law in racially troubled Cambridge, Md. today were ordered to remain on duty through the weekend.

The troops, sent to Cambridge June 14 by Gov. J. Millard Tawes to put down racial violence, were to have been removed at noon today but Adj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord of the Maryland National Guard announced that they would remain.

Cambridge officials had asked Tawes to keep the troops here at least through the weekend.

Some civil rights leaders in Cambridge have urged that racial demonstrations resume immediately after the troops depart.

Negroes by the thousands staged anti-segregation demonstrations and allies in at least eight cities from New York to California Thursday, and there were arrests in two of the cities —Baltimore, Md., and Chapel Hill, N.C.

The 283 demonstrators taken into custody at Baltimore, where "freedom riders" from New York and Philadelphia sought admission to a segregated amusement park, included the Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, head of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.

A bi-racial group of 45 pickets was removed bodily from a road at Hempstead, N.Y., when it attempted to block traffic to Jones Beach in a protest against alleged discriminatory hiring practices at the state park beach.

Around 450 persons marched through Chapel Hill, home of the University of North Carolina, to city hall where they sang "freedom songs." Police arrested three persons.

Mayor Richard J. Daley led a "freedom march" of thousands of

Another Major Spy Scandal Hinted in Britain

LONDON (AP) — British officials indicate they are not worried by newspaper reports that another major spy scandal is about to break in this spy-plagued country.

British papers said Thursday the arrest of a British Air Ministry official was imminent and that a second government associate might be involved.

One report said the Air Ministry man served in Washington during the British-American negotiations which saw the end of the Skybolt rocket program. The Daily Mail claimed American nuclear rocket secrets may have been involved.

Officials in several affected ministries said they knew of nothing to justify the reports.

British School Is Attacked as Center for Spies

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Stirred up by the unmasking of missing British journalist H. A. R. Philby as a Soviet spy, Lebanese newspapers attacked the British government's Arabic Language School today as a spy center.

"Here is the beehive of British espionage in the Middle East," one newspaper headlined. Another asked Lebanese Interior Minister Kamal Jumblatt to produce documents he claims to have proving the school is an intelligence center.

Philby, 51, former first secretary of the British Embassy in Washington, disappeared from Beirut last January and was reported to have slipped behind the Iron Curtain.

Philby has been accused of working as a double agent during World War II when Britain and the Soviet Union were allies.

The British government said he also tipped off turncoat spies Guy Burgess and Donald Maclean that they were about to be arrested in 1951. Both escaped to Communist territory.

Ad Agency Sends GT to 2,500 Mercury Dealers

The Lincoln-Mercury Division of Ford Motor Co., thru its advertising agency, had nearly 6,000 copies of the Gazette Telegraph mailed from the newspaper's office this morning to its more than 2,500 Mercury dealers across the country.

The mammoth mailing project was set up by W. R. Welch, account executive for Kenyon & Eckhardt Inc., the advertising agency for Lincoln-Mercury.

Welch, who witnessed the annaul Pikes Peak Hill Climb, said he was sent here to get first hand information on the Mercury's performance on Pikes Peak as Parnelli Jones was driving one of the automobile's in the race.

Jones won the stock car division, driving a 1963 Mercury Marauder with a special Fourth of July paint job in red, white and blue.

Welch said his agency was interested in the results of the hill climb and explained that since a Mercury won one of the divisions, felt this was an excellent way of communicating the car's performance to the dealers.

Parachute Jumper Dies In Exhibition

UNION CITY, Ind. (AP) — A young electrician, who parachuted as a hobby, jumped in an exhibition before 5,000 persons at a Fourth of July celebration and died as the chute failed to open.

The jump occurred half an hour ahead of schedule, and only a few of the spectators in Harter Park were aware that Evan Hall, 28, of Union City was killed. He fell in a pasture half a mile away.

De Gaulle Talk With Adenauer Reported Failure

By CARL HARTMAN

BONN, Germany (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer failed to agree today on what kind of relations the Common Market should have with Britain, West German officials reported.

The officials, emerging from a three-hour conference of top West German and French leaders, reported that the meeting resulted only in a delay of the problem.

They added that no effective agreement could be reached, either, on farm prices — another difficulty that has been holding up progress in the Common Market.

De Gaulle was scheduled to leave late this afternoon for Paris.

Adenauer was smiling as he saw De Gaulle to his car, but other ministers looked discouraged. High hopes had been set on this meeting.

Werner Schwarz, West German agriculture minister, said new studies would have to be made on measures proposed to solve farm problems.

"Anything further has to be done in Brussels," he added.

Foreign ministers and agriculture ministers of six Common Market countries are due to meet there next week.

De Gaulle and Adenauer met on this second day of the French president's visit to discuss the kind of relations the West European market should have with Britain, blocked by a French veto from entering the Common Market.

Rapid Increase Of Holiday Auto Deaths Reported

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Auto passengers contributed to a rising highway death toll today in the nation's Independence Day weekend mass motoring shuffle as the holiday fatality count quickened.

The toll near mid-day was 182. Several crashes involved cars carrying groups, and killed several persons at a time.

The four-day holiday death toll was mounting at a pace close to that of Independence Day 1961 when a record 509 traffic fatalities were counted.

During the long weekend period which ends at midnight Sunday, many roads were thronged with cars, especially in vicinities of beaches and other recreation spots.

Ike Is Back In Denver for Six-Day Visit

By ROBERT E. COX

DENVER (UPI)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was back in the city of his Summer White House today—this time for six days of rest and relaxation as a private citizen.

Eisenhower and his wife Mamie, smiling broadly as they stepped from a private railroad car at Union Station shortly after 6 p.m. MST Thursday, quickly were driven to the Brown Palace Hotel.

Eisenhower made no formal address, in keeping with earlier announcements that the trip was mainly for private visits with friends.

Denver was the home of Mrs. Eisenhower's late mother, Mrs. John Doud, and Eisenhower vacationed here several times while he was President.

Included in the Independence Day crowd of about 100 at the station were Aksel Neilsen, Colorado businessman and long-time friend of the Eisenhowers, former Presidential body guard Tommy Golden, now on the district attorney's staff, and Miss Sally Guinn, "Miss Colorado."

General Disarmament Seen As Ultimate Goal of U.S.

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UPI)— General disarmament is the "ultimate goal" of U.S. policy, but government leaders "have no illusions that it can be achieved in the kind of world we live in today."

So says William C. Foster, director of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

Foster, a 66-year-old Republican business executive and former deputy defense secretary, made clear in an interview with UPI that he was startled to find himself being accused in some quarters of trying to strip America of its defenses and transfer all military power to a United Nations peace force.

He said the United States did present a plan for "general and complete" disarmament to the 18-nation disarmament conference in Geneva. But the U.S. plan was, in effect, a diplomatic response to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's widely ballyhooed proposal of total disarmament within four years.

Although U.S. leaders never thought Khrushchev's proposal was sincere, it created quite a stir among the less sophisticated small nations, who live in terror of a big power nuclear clash. The United States responded by spelling out terms on which it would be prepared to move toward disarmament.

Foster said the U.S. terms are completely realistic and provide for "absolute safeguards" at each step of a long-range mutual disarmament program. The United States would not reduce its military strength one whit, he said, until it had foolproof guarantees of a comparable reduction by the Communist bloc.

Q. That would mean an international inspection system, wouldn't it?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you see any possibility of reaching agreement with Russia on such a plan in the near future?

A. None whatsoever. We can't even get them to agree to a nuclear test ban enforced by seven on-site inspections a year. In the present climate of big power re-

Coastal Defenses Of U.S. Stepped Up by Guard

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. Coast Guard is quietly stepping up defenses along America's coastline against any smuggling of spies, saboteurs and weapons into this country, the New York Journal-American said today.

A Washington dispatch by Ed Edstrom of the Hearst Headline Service said:

"Without fanfare, the Coast Guard has sent out 'Operations Instructions 30-63'. It is addressed to a host of federal and state agencies and sounds an alert against 'clandestine entry of saboteurs and espionage agents and the smuggling of weapons and devices for sabotage, including nuclear or other mass destruction weapons, into the United States from the sea.' "

The newspaper said the order sprang from a sweeping survey order by Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon, under whom the Coast Guard operates in peacetime.

Among other things, instruction 30-63 directs attention to a little-known law that offers a reward up to $500,000 to any citizen who helps catch anyone trying to smuggle in or build an atomic weapon.

The Atomic Weapons Rewards Act, passed at the request of the Justice Department, also gives U.S. sanctuary to any alien revealing such an effort.

Town Rehires 'Bad Luck' Weatherman

CLEETHROPES, England (AP) — The Town Council rehired weatherman Raymond Comray today after firing him because he made too many correct forecasts.

"He was always forecasting rain," said a council spokesman "and the trouble was — he was nearly always correct."

Cleethorpes is a seaside resort. Business is good only when the weather is good.

For the last three days the forecast from London said rain for Cleethorpes. Instead there was sunshine.

"Mr. Comray feels we're in for a spell of sunshine," said the spokesman. "But whether we are or not, we've decided his forecasts are better than the other ones and the customers insist on forecasts."

LIMA, Peru (AP)—Writer-lecturer William Willis set sail aboard a raft Thursday on a solitary 12,000-mile Pacific Voyage. He is trying to prove that older Americans are rugged and need not retire at 65. Willis is 70.

Willis, of New York, expects to reach Sydney, Australia, in four or five months aboard the Age Unlimited, a 33-by-20-foot steel pontoon raft powered only by sails.

Transmission Line Contract Awarded

WASHINGTON (UPI)— A $7.8 million contract has been awarded to Donovan Construction Co., St. Paul, Minn., to build a 301-mile transmission line from the Oahe Power Plant.

Kenneth Holum, assistant secretary of the interior, in announcing the award Thursday, said the work will cover the major part of a 500-mile section of a 230,000-volt transmission line from the Oahe Dam in South Dakota to the Reclamation Bureau's Hayden, Colo., sub-station.

The line covered by Donovan's contract extends from the power plant near Pierre, S.D., to a substation near Gering, in western Nebraska.

Donovan was only $16,789 under the second-low bid, made by Paul Hardeman, Inc., Stanton, Calif. Electric Properties Co., Lincoln, Neb., was third with a bid of $7,960,434.

ALESSANDRIA, Italy (UPI)— Raccordo Cavazza, 19, was arrested Thursday on charges of burglarizing the apartment of Judge Teonesto Aragnetti, who jailed him recently for another theft.

Queen Elizabeth Falls Into Auto

KENILWORTH, England (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II caught the toe of her shoe on the running board of her car Thursday and sprawled forward on the floor of the vehicle. She was not hurt.

The incident occurred at the annual Royal Agricultural Show as the queen was entering her car. Her husband, Prince Philip, quickly helped her to her feet and asked if she was injured.

"No, no, I'm all right," her majesty replied, a little flushed.

The director of the show, Francis Pemberton, said later the queen "slipped like anyone can slip. She did not hurt herself in the slightest."

PENCILS, PENS EVERYWHERE

BRISTOW, Okla. (AP) — Oliver Higgenbothom owns more than 1,700 pencils, pens and mechanical pencils, but not one can be used to write. They're mounted on strips of cloth hung like drapes around the walls. And now he is running out of walls.

But, he had to borrow a pen from a neighbor to endorse a check.

Rockefeller Will Stay in Contest For Nomination

EDITOR'S NOTE—New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is reported determined to stay in the contest for the 1964 GOP presidential nomination. Do Republican leaders believe he will fight it out? What steps are being taken aimed at brightening his political image? Jack Bell, veteran AP political writer, analyzes the situation.

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—The firm message has been passed to Republican leaders that Gov. Nelon A. Rockefeller has every intention of pursuing vigorously his quest for the 1964 GOP presidential nomination.

At what some of his friends believe is the low mark of his popularity, the New York governor is depicted as determined to stay in the contest for a nomination some party members thought he had forfeited when he married the divorced mother of four children.

As evidence of the Rockefeller intentions, associates point to the maintenance at full strength of the presidential task force of trained assistants the governor has been assembling in New York City and Albany for several years.

They cite the quiet Rockefeller selling job being carried on by George L. Hinman, New York Republican national committeeman. Hinman, who heads the presidential task force with headquarters in Rockefeller Plaza, is emphatic about his man's availability.

Rockefeller himself is reported to feel that politically things have got so bad they are bound to get better. From an acknowledged top running position he has plummeted to a level at which, for the moment, he can count with certainty on not much more than New York's convention support.

This circumstance finds Republicans divided on the issue of whether the governor will stick it out, despite the assurances coming out of New York.

One prominent party member who maintains neutrality between prospective presidential nominees said he isn't so sure.

"He quit in 1959 when there was a whole lot less reason for him to get out than there is now," this Republican said. "If he could change his mind then, he could change it again."

A Rockefeller booster said the situation isn't the same as that in which the governor found the field had been sewed up for the nomination of then Vice President Richard M. Nixon. He added that nobody is likely to get a pre-convention lock on the nomination as Nixon did.

"The governor is a very stubborn man," this Republican leader said. "He has made up his mind to go after the nomination and, in my judgment, he will make an all-out fight for it."

Some steps are being taken aimed at brightening the governor's political image.

Rockefeller's associates believe a settlement is near by which his wife's four children by her previous marriage can be with their mother part of the time.

Tht involvement of the children seems to have heightened criticism of the marriage far beyond the point the governor expected. The belief is that this could be mitigated by satisfactory custody arrangements publicly announced.

The governor and his new wife have about completed the political circuit in New York, where their receptions have been friendly. They will make their first out-of-state appearance late this month at the governors' conference in Miami Beach, Fla.

If the schedule is maintained, Rockefeller will accept some of the speaking invitations that continue to pour in to him. This would give him the opportunity to build up a record of sharp opposition to President Kennedy's policies. Such opposition would be aimed in part at quieting any "me-too" complaints from those within his own party who think that his views are too alike those of the President.

Where it is apparent that Rockefeller and Kennedy are closer in their thinking than the governor is with some Republicans, a formula has been worked out.

Where he approves some Kennedy action, Rockefeller is likely to follow the pattern he set in commenting on the President's civil rights legislative program.

In this case, he urged that Congress act promptly on the program. He called the issue a bipartisan one. But he went on to say that the legislative proposals were long overdue and didn't go as far as New York laws do.

His appeal to the Republicans lies in trying to sell them the idea that he might carry New York and the big electoral vote industrial states.

Rockefeller is under compulsion to employ some conservative language in talking to his own party members. But he can't compromise on such issues as civil rights and expect to cut into Kennedy's hold on the big cities, even if it means sacrificing the opportunities some GOP members think they have of carrying most of the South.

This dilemma might discourage an average politician, but apparently not Rockefeller.

Meatless Thursday Reported in Prague

DUCK TAKES TO DRINK

COLCHESTER, England (AP)—Beady, a male duck, often disconcerts non-regulars at the Peldon Rose pub by sticking his beak into their whiskey or gin, filling it, and then throwing his head up to facilitate swallowing. Beady also is anti-female, duck or human.

Carson EOD Unit Set for Annual Training Test

Ft. Carson's 94th Ordance Detachment (Explosive Ordnance Disposal) commanded by Captain Glenn E. Wilt, left Carson Thursday for Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Maryland to participate in their annual Army Training Test. The unit will be gone 16 days.

The 94th was the top scorer over all EOD units of its type in the Army in last year's test. The unit will try to better its score this year.

The test itself will run a total of 14 days, and will consist of the unit working in explosive disposal under simulated wartime conditions.

The 94th's most recent job was the pick up and detonation of a quart bottle of black powder from the Colorado Spring's Police who had previously impounded it. This assignment is in keeping with the service which is rendered to the local and regional community of making safe any dangerous explosives and war trophies which might be discovered.

Black powder incidentally is considered the most dangerous explosive handled by the explosive experts next to Nitro Glycerine.

Negroes through Chicago but he later was booed from the speaker's stand at Grant Park. The event climaxed the 54th annual convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

A singing crowd of about 250 persons, mostly Negroes, marched through downtown San Diego, Calif., and was greeted by Mayor Charles Dail in front of the Civic Center. Dail promised that the city's biracial Human Relations Committee would seek sincere solutions to racial problems.

Elsewhere in the nation:

Charleston, S.C. — More than 100 Negroes paraded in the downtown area in protest against segregation practices in this historic port city.

Savannah, Ga. — About 400 Negroes marched to the Chatham County jail Thursday night and serenaded a young Negro leader jailed last week for participating in a demonstration. The demonstration broke up peacefully.

Danville, Va. — Negro leaders met Thursday to plan strategy for the resumption of racial demonstrations in this tense city. They said they expect Southern integration leader Martin Luther King Jr. to arrive next week to aid in the campaign.

Philadelphia — Vice President Lyndon Johnson said Thursday the Declaration of Independence must apply to every citizen. The document's meaning needs no further interpretation, he said, "it needs to be implemented."

Miami — Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., said Thursday that legislation more important to Negroes than civil rights would be a tax reduction bill to improve their economic situation.

Chicago — Clyde Kennard, a Negro who once tried to attend the University of Southern Mississippi, died Thursday of cancer. Kennard, 36, was released from a Mississippi prison in January to receive treatment in Chicago.

Knoxville, Tenn. — The city's Committee for Peaceful and Orderly Desegregation said Thursday about 50 "leading restaurants and cafeterias" would begin serving Negroes today.

Vicksburg, Miss. — Gov. Ross R. Barnett issued a call for "all true, red-blooded Americans to take a stand and save this nation from destruction." He charged "high federal authorities of our government are tearing the very heart out of the Declaration of Independence."

Prichard, La. — Gov. George Wallace said Thursday night trips he recently took to other sections of the country have convinced him people around the nation were joining the South in its fight for states' rights.

Nine Injured, $7,000 Damage In Accident

Nine persons were injured and over $7,000 worth of damage done in a three-car accident just north of Monument on U. S. 85-87 Wednesday night, the State Patrol reported.

A 4-year-old girl, Vickie Lea Sorby, received a fractured jaw and severe facial lacerations in the wreck, and was taken to Penrose Hospital along with three other members of her family. Virginia P. Sorby, of Rt. No. 3, Shoup Road, the driver of the car, received abrasions and bruises. Richard Sorby, 43, suffered multiple contusions and Stephen R. Sorby, 7, sustained lacerations on his nose and forehead, according to the report.

The driver of another car involved in the accident, Dusty Yates, 21, of Denver, was treated at Memorial Hospital for a bruised knee. Two Denver women and a man who were passengers in the car also were injured. Nancy A. Snador, 20, sustained a fractured right ankle. Naomi Ruth Travis, 20, received lacerations and contusions and John Robert Kennedy, 19, suffered a scalp laceration. They were all taken to Memorial Hospital.

Leon H. Sweetland, 36, of Evergreen, was the driver of the third car involved in the wreck. He was uninjured, according to the report.

Susan Sweetland, 8, a passenger, received a bump on her head and a cut knee. She was released at the scene.

State Patrolman, Gordon W. Baumgardner said that the accident happened when the north bound car driven by Yates went out of control and skidded across the median ditch into the south bound lanes. Yates' car struck the south bound car driven by Sweetland on the side and then bounced off and hit the Sorby car head-on, the report said.

Building Permits Show Increase At Florence

Building permits for the month of June skyrocketed with the beginning of construction on the city's new water plant with valuation estimated at $106,674 for the 30-day period, according to City Building Inspector Carl Meyers.

Included in the monthly valuation estimate were 23 permits which brought in fees amounting to $462.75, and 21 gas, plumbing, and electrical permits totaling $69.75.

To date, 46 contractors have been licensed and bonded bringing fees to a total of $1,342 for the year.

In his report to the city council, Inspector Meyers noted that of the 23 building permits issued during the month, one was for the new water plant, one for a new home, another for a new garage, and 20 were for remodeling of local dwellings.

Meyers further stated that home construction in the new subdivision, recently purchased by Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Beatty, is expected to get under way soon. The building program, which was to have been launched here early this spring, has been held up because of legal problems which have now been resolved.

The city inspector added that the new water plant, under construction by the B.B.S. Construction company of Englewood, is moving ahead with excavation work now completed and footings and basement floor (concrete) poured this week.

Ike Is Back In Denver for Six-Day Visit

his ranch near Fraser, Colo. Only three public activities were scheduled during the stay, which will end July 10.

Eisenhower will dedicate a golf course named in his honor at the Air Force Academy Monday, and Mrs. Eisenhower will dedicate a library named for her in suburban Broomfield Sunday.

Prior to his departure July 10, Eisenhower will participate in a unique television broadcast, to be beamed world-wide via the orbiting communications satellite, Telstar.

During the broadcast, Eisenhower will discuss world situations with former British Prime Minister Anthony Eden in London, Henrich Von Brentano, leader of the German Bundestag, and Jean Monnet, described as the "father of the European Common Market," in Brussels.

During the former President's vacation stay here in 1955, he suffered a serious heart attack, and was confined to bed at Fitzsimons General Hospital for 49 days. He returned to Washington Nov. 11, 1955.

The Summer White House was set up at Lowry Air Force Base here.

It was not announced when the Eisenhowers would leave for Neilsen's mountain ranch, about 75 miles west of Denver.

Homestake Work Ground-Breaking Scheduled July 27

stake Lake, will be a 3½-mile section and is to be completed by May, 1964.

Homestake Lake, on the western side of the Continental Divide, is the site of the proposed 225-foot high dam that will store 45,000 acre feet of water. In comparison, Twin Lakes, south of Leadville, now holds 55,000 acre feet. Bids for the dam's construction will be asked soon.

Colorado Springs and Aurora will share an estimated 74,000 acre feet of water annually in the development of Homestake Creek and other tributaries of the Eagle River northwest of Leadville.

First water should reach the two cities in 1966, but it will take several years to complete the huge program.

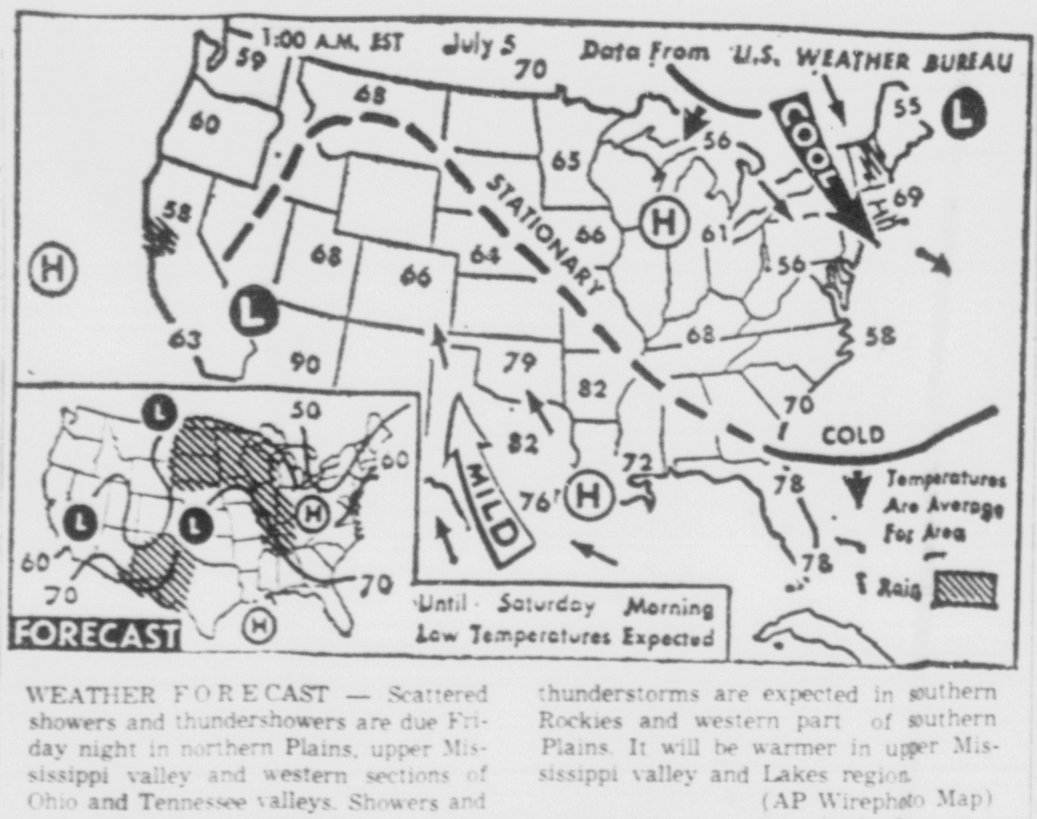
The Homestake water will eventually be pumped thru concrete conduits thru the 5.3-mile tunnel, transported over Trout Creek Pass to Antero Reservoir and then into the South Platte River to Eleven Mile Canyon Reservoir.

Colorado Springs would take its share of the water by pipeline from the reservoir to an enlarged reservoir on the Northfield watershed, after which it will be sent into the municipal distribution system.

Aurora's share would continue from 11-Mile Reservoir in the South Platte River to an undesignated point north of the Denver area.

The Homestake Water Development Project, when completed, will supply more water than the $165 million federal Fryingpan-Arkansas Project. That project is to deliver a maximum of 72,000 acre feet thru a Continental Divide tunnel to the Arkansas River to supplement water available in eastern Colorado.

Homestake is an all-Colorado venture, financed entirely by Colorado Springs and Aurora. Boettcher & Company of Denver is handling the sale of bonds in the multi-million project. Bechtel, Inc., of San Francisco, the largest consulting engineering firm in the country, is consulting engineer for this project.



WEATHER FORECAST — Scattered showers and thundershowers are due Friday night in northern Plains, upper Mississippi valley and western sections of Ohio and Tennessee valleys. Showers and thunderstorms are expected in southern Rockies and western part of southern Plains. It will be warmer in upper Mississippi valley and Lakes region. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Colorado Company Hopes To Develop Rice Production

Rice, a crop unknown to farmers of the Rocky Mountain West, may be grown commercially in Colorado if the hopes of Adolph Coors Company come true.

Company officials acknowledged this week that Coors is growing rice on some experimental plots on Colorado's western slope to determine whether premium brewers rice can be raised satisfactorily in this state.

If they determine that it can, Coors would like to establish a Colorado rice-growing program which would be patterned after the Coors barley program. Under that program, Coors has a working arrangement with 1300 Colorado farmers who produce high quality Moravian malting barley, used exclusively in the manufacture of Coors beer.

The Company is hopeful that both the Grand Valley and the lower Arkansas Valley may be suited to rice-growing.

How are the test plots doing? "It's really too early to tell, but we are not discouraged by what we know so far," said William K. Coors, president of Adolph Coors Company. "An encouraging aspect of the matter is that rice can help reclaim alkaline land, found in many parts of Colorado and virtually useless for farming purposes."

Coors, the West's largest brewery, this year will buy 75 million pounds of rice at a cost of $3.7 million. Most of that will come from California and the balance from Texas, Lousiana and Arkansas.

Among those enthusiastic about the idea of a Colorado rice crop is Paul W. Swisher, state commissioner of agriculture. "Rice would be an entirely new crop for Colorado, and could mean a significant boost for the economy of our state," Swisher said.

Chief reason Coors is looking into ways and means of growing rice in Colorado, company officials explain, is that the variety of rice which Coors requires for its brewing process is losing popularity as a table rice, and is increasingly difficult to buy in sufficient quantity.

Coors uses "brokens," the rice heads that crack during the milling process. Percentagewise, however, that part of the U. S. rice crop mhich is available as brokens grows smaller each year. That's because newer rice varieties and milling techniques are reducing the amount of rice broken up by the milling process.

Too, the brewing process requires a short-grained variety of rice with a low gelatinizing temperature. Such rice "cooks up" best for brewing purposes. The housewife, though, wants just the opposite — nice big heads of rice that retain their identity in cooking.

As the quantity of suitable rice brokens grows smaller, Coors rice requirements are mounting rapidly. The amount of rice which Coors will buy this year represents a fivefold increase over its requirements of 10 years ago. Coors officials foresee an annual increase of 20 per cent in the company's rice requirements.

Because of the tightening problem, the company conceivably could be forced into one of three positions, none of which it cares for: (1) buying varieties of rice it really doesn't want to buy, (2) buying "head" or "table" rice at a price about twice that of rice brokens, or (3) importing rice.

In three of the past five years, Coors has had to import rice—chiefly from Australia and Mexico — to meet its rigid requirements.

All of this explains why the company — which uses about five per cent of all rice that is used in the United States — is taking a close look at the possibility of growing some of its own rice through a working arrangement with Colorado farmers.

"If we should decide to do so," the brewery's president said, "we would undoubtedly start in a small way and let the future be guided by the results."

You don't just up and plant rice like a backyard carrot patch though. The crop is strictly regulated by the federal government. All rice gown in the United States is subject to strict acreage allotments and price supports.

Thus if Coors should decide to try growing rice in Colorado, it would be necessary to obtain federal acreage allotments for that purpose.

The Company feels that such allotments would not be overly difficult to obtain on grounds that Coors would guarantee to purchase all of the rice grown under the plan, there would be no surplus, and government rice supports would not be necessary.

Rehearsal Held For 'Drafting' Of Goldwater

But the principal speaker, Sen. John Tower of Texas, told the crowd that, if Goldwater could see the rally, there would be no doubt about his decision to run for the presidency.

Tower, O'Donnell and F. Clifton White, director of the draft committee, all sought to answer critics of the Goldwater campaign. These critics complain that the campaign depends too much on the South, that it would give away big blocs of electoral votes in populous eastern states and that it would peak too soon.

Tower said only Goldwater was a "truly national candidate" in contrast to a regional candidate or a "pressure group" candidate.

White said the Goldwater strategy did not call for writing off any state, but he showed slides indicating that Goldwater could win 301 electoral votes, 31 more than needed, without such states as New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Michigan and California.

The biggest cheer came when White showed a slide indicating a Goldwater sweep of the South. A southerner ran in front of the platform waving the stars and bars of the Confederacy.

Rep. John M. Ashbrook of Ohio said the nomination of Goldwater would enable the GOP to carry 20 more congressional districts in the South next year and 20 more in the Midwest.

General Disarmament Seen as Ultimate Goal

lationships, there is not the slightest chance of achieving a complete disarmament agreement. We would be glad to have the kind of stable and peaceful world order envisioned by the U.S. disarmament plan, but we know that it doesn't exist today.

Q. Does that mean that disarmament is just a distant dream?

A. If you mean total disarmament, I can only repeat that the world would have to change a great deal before it would be practical. But we're not waiting for that day. We're trying to get started with a few first steps toward bringing the arms race under control and reducing the danger of war by mistake or miscalculation. We believe that some progress, however, limited, is possible in this area, because the big powers have a mutual interest in avoiding catastrophe.

Q. What are some of the "first steps" that seem to be practical now?

A. Well, we've already taken one of them. The new agreement to set up "hot line" communications between Washington and Moscow is a significant move in the direction of reducing the danger of war by miscalculation. Such a rapid and dependable communications link would have helped greatly to reduce the dangers of the Cuban crisis. An agreement to halt nuclear testing would be another good first step.

The Nation's Weather

The sequence of weather events changed little since Thursday with sunny dry conditions the rule, except for a scattering of daytime thundershowers.

A stationary front continued from Georgia across the center of the country to Montana, marking the dividing line between cool air to the northeast and warmer air to the southwest.

In the north-east early morning minimum temperatures dipped to new record lows for the date.

Philadelphia recorded a low of 55 and Columbus, Ohio, 49.

On the warm side, 70s appeared from the Gulf Coast into the southern half of the Plains and the arid southwest.

Florence Adds 40 Acres In Annexation

Florence took another step toward expanding its city limits Monday night by passing, on first reading, a bill for ordinance No. 504 which will annex another 40 acres of land into the community.

The additional acreage will house the city's new quarter-million dollar water plant now on construction on the west mesa. Only discussion on the annexation was to change the zoning designation from a heavy industry to industrial on the bill.

In other business, all of it routine, the city council heard various reports from the city manager regarding paving, tree spraying, water, SCS surveys, and routine department reports.

City Manager Frank Carochi told the council that the water situation currently remains critical despite some heavy rains June 17.

He also reported on the progress at the new water plant and noted that 118 yards of concrete has now been poured for base piers and basements.

The reservoir sealing program, discussed at the last council session, appears to be stymied although investigations are continuing into the material proposed by the Silvercliffe Products corporation.

No paving or seal coating is in the offing until early August, and city crews are working on their own devise for spraying city-owned trees in the community.

There were no fire calls in June, and Manager Carochi reported that the city police court recorded $95 in local fines for the month. Dog licenses now total 275.

English Movie Slated Tuesday At Arts Center

"Loneliness of the Long Distance Runner," high-spirited English movie starring Tom Courtenay and Michael Redgrave, will be shown at the Fine Arts Center Tuesday at 2:30, 7:05 and 9 p.m.

Directed by Tony Richardson, whose previous successes include "Saturday Night and Sunday Morning" and "A Taste of Honey," the brilliant screen play is based on a short story by Alan Sillitoe. It concerns a young rebel who has a natural talent for running — mostly from the police — and a strong sense of individualism.

Sent to a Borstal reformatory as a result of his robbing a bakery, he comes to the attention of a conventional-minded Governor (Redgrave) who believes the salvation of wayward youth is athletics. Unintentionally, the youth letics. Unintentionally, the youth distinguishes himself by outrunning the young inmate who was acknowledged as the Borstal's best runner.

The boy submissively goes into a rigorous training routine, giving no outward indication of the contempt which he has against the whole system and of the simple, cruel revenge which he is planning for the Authorities in which he has no belief.

The movie and Courtenay, whose performance projected him as a major screen personality, have been hailed by critics here and abroad. "The New Yorker" magazine calls it "an excellent picture" and "Life" magazine says it is "compelling... a brilliant find in Tom Courtenay."

Firemen Have Busy Time Over Holiday

After responding to nine alarms Wednesday, the Colorado Springs fire department coasted along until 4:06 p.m. Thuesday, when an alarm was received of a fire in a trailer loaded with furniture at Cimarron Street on the Freeway. The furniture belonged to James Dwigging, 369 N. 10th St., Brighton, Colo., and was being hauled by Walter Swieter. The report of the fire department is that the fire was probably caused by Swieter throwing a cigarette from the window of the car and it falling on an overstuffed chair in the trailer. Firemen of Company 3 put out the fire. There was a considerable damage to the furniture.

At 8:34 p.m. Thursday Company 4 went to the 1400 block East Fountain St., where a grass fire was burning alongside Evergreen Cemetery. It was soon extinguished. There was no damage.

At 9:50 p.m., Company 1 went to 425 S. Weber St., where some trash was set ablaze by spark from a barrel being used as an incinerator. Occupant of the house was Mrs. Edna Herring. There was no damage.

The last alarm Thursday was received at 10:01 p.m. when Company 5 went to the residence of John Daughtery, 2326 Howbert St., where malfunctioning of a TV set caused the house to be filled with smoke. There was no fire damage. The firemen fanned the smoke from the building.

FIELD IS WIDE OPEN

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—In a field where there is little competition two sophomores at Sam Houston State Teachers College hand-plait ropes which they sell to rodeo performers. Bo Ashorn of Barker and Ray Lenart of Houston have been working at the craft for two years. The intricate process is one that probably will never bow to the machine age.

The boys turn out about two ropes a week, and these sell from $8 to $18 depending on the ropes' complexity. The strands are hand-woven to meet the requirements of each customer. Some prefer nine plaits; others want "medium plaits" or "small nines" or seven plaits. There is a different size for different size hands.

Lenart and Ashorn get plenty of work as there are only about seven plaiters in Texas nad Louisiana and four or five in the northern states.

Copper Mine in Chile Paralyzed by Walkout

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — A wage strike of 7,000 workers today paralyzed the Kennecott Copper Company's El Teniente mine, the world's largest underground copper mine.

The workers are demanding an average pay increase of 55 per cent. The Braden Copper Co., the Kennecott subsidiary which operates the mine, offered 33.5 per cent.

The mine, located 12,000 feet up in the Andes 80 miles southeast of Santiago, has a monthly output of 15,000 short tons.

Import Revenues in Colorado Increasing

DENVER (UPI) — An increase in imported goods coming to Colorado has raised by half a million dollars duties collected by the district U.S. Customs department.

John Streltzer, the collector in Denver, said the increase brought the total collections for last fiscal year to $2.8 million.

He said much of the increase could be attributed to increased importing of "fine scotches" by Colorado wholesale liquor dealers.

He also said increased travel by Coloradans may have led to more importing of merchandise "they never would have thought of before."

CONSTRUCTION REPORT

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Commerce Department has estimated that $5.9 billion in new construction was built during June—about 8 per cent more than the May estimate.

The increase was about 2 per cent higher than the normal seasonal rise for June, the department said.

It reported that total new construction for the first six months of this year reached an estimated $28.8 billion—4 per cent higher than for the same period in 1962.

COLORADO SPRINGS
GAZETTE TELEGRAPH

Your Freedom Newspaper
Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule, the Ten Commandments and the Declaration of Independence.

By Their Fruits Ye Shall Know Them

About the silliest thing we have seen recently is the prating of certain labor bosses that they stand for law and order. But it is typical of some that they speak out of both sides of their mouths.

You recognize the nature of any man or any organization by what they do, not by what they say. And what outfit in the history of the United States has a longer record of lawlessness and disregard for the rights of individuals than the labor unions?

When has it been lawful for a man to be physically restrained by force and violence when he wishes peacefully to work at a job of his own choosing? Do you remember the recent strike of the ITU and kindred unions against New York newspapers, to name but a few? Where were the exponents of law and order then?

Harmless workers, cowed into hopelessness, trudged wearily past their places of employment, not daring to cross the picket lines flung out in lawless disregard of freedom of the press and the rights of individuals. Is this evidence of law and order?

What of the thousands of cases in the past? What of the beatings, the property damage inflicted on the innocent, the incitement to riot, the truculence of shop stewards and the actual murder of harmless bystanders by union goons? When have such actions been supported by law? When have they been indicative of order?

And yet some union leaders are so far removed from the truth that they like to pose as good citizens even as they plot future forays against the society, the economy and the good of their own members!

One thing union bosses cannot stand is the truth. When pitiless glare of fact stares at them from the pages of this newspaper, they squirm and try to hide by alleging that this newspaper and its editor and publisher favor breaking the law.

We defy anyone to produce a single bit of evidence that we have ever favored lawlessness.

It is true, and must be true, that there are many laws we feel are hopelessly unjust and immoral. Have we asked people to disobey these laws? We have not. We have urged them, on the contrary, to obey the laws even when they are unjust, but to raise their voices against the injustice.

Is this lawlessness? Is it disorder?

We have called for a public awakening. We have challenged immoral and improper laws on the grounds of immorality and impropriety. We have championed truth and the good life. We have called for the rights of individuals to be supported in all walks of life regardless of race, creed or color. When have we done otherwise?

We have claimed that our freedom is being taken from us piecemeal. Is this true or is it false? Is it an evidence of lawlessness that we wish men to be free to make their own way individually?

Colorado Springs has within its environs a group of men who plot and scheme to destroy your property rights. They plot to do this thru the process of securing to themselves by force or the threat of force, more of the fruits of your labor than you will voluntarily surrender to them. Who are the lawless? Who are the lawful?

We have remained peaceful. Yet we have been attacked and abused.

Who is creating discord: The aggressor or the victim of aggression?

We favor peace and we favor production. Our words and our actions are in harmony. We believe in the Golden Rule and in the rights of free men as individuals.

Ever since the International Typographical Union moved its headquarters here, Colorado Springs has been torn with factional strife. Who created it? Whose record of violence, disorder, cruelty and oppression needs to be examined?

Delicate

Don't sneer or become bored just because you hear a new idea. New ideas are delicate and subject to premature death in the presence of a closed mind.

Practical Aspects Of Freedom

One of the oft-repeated canards concerning liberty is that it is "impractical."

Only on a few occasions in history have those who favored liberty been in the ascendency. Their influence, during those occasions, has resulted in a great release of human energy and a corresponding rise in standards both material and moral.

But a true student of liberty does not seek to rule others, even in favor of liberty.

A man in our office the other day was questioining us on this very point. He said: "I understand, Mr. Editor, that you favor private ownership of such things as schools and libraries and even such things as post offices and highways. Let us suppose that you were suddenly elected to the post of mayor of Colorado Springs What would you do to bring into existence the kind of conditions you favor?"

We view such a contingency as being utterly remote and wholly undesirable. And we answered with full sincerity, "Our first action would be to abdicate." Our visitor paused and looked at us keenly. "I am being serious," he said.

"Really, now. What would you do?"

"We are being equally sincere," we repeated. "We believe in freedom. We have no more right to invoke laws of our own devising upon people than others have to invoke laws of their devising upon us.

"Freedom is not something that can be won by a few and then put over on a multitude. Freedom is an individual affair. Each man earns it himself or he never experiences it. A man who believes in freedom believes he must learn, not to rule others, but to control himself."

"It seems impractical," we were told.

And this is the old story. But let us look at history. One of the first instances of many centuries in which freedom was invoked occurred among the Israelites. Following the exodus from Egypt, altho they wandered as a warlike peoples for many years before a final settlement was made, once the location in the land of Canaan was found the Israelites became men of peace and productivity. They did not establish a government. Factions arose among them seeking to do so, but these factions were minority groups and did not obtain power. Meanwhile, the libertarian influence of the foremost thinkers of the Israelites dominated the culture. And the results were astounding, and wholly beneficial.

When the temptation to set up a king and to establish a nation on a power basis became overwhelming, the Israelites became again a nation at war and they again experienced a captivity, this time under the sway of Babylonia.

Again in history we should read of the action of the Saracens. Inspired by the teachings of Mohammet, the Islamic peoples proliferated. Contrary to much popular writing, they did not rely on government and on military prowess to establish their culture. Rather, they became a productive people and pioneered in medicine, agriculture, education and mathematics. They invented the cipher, without which conception modern mathematics would be impossible.

They developed rare fruits and vegetables, founded one of the truly great universities at Cairo and assisted in enlightening Spain when the rest of Europe was torn by internal wars and political ambition flourished in the rise and fall of kingdoms. For something close to 600 years the Islamic Saracens carried the light of learning and peace. It flickered and went out when they turned to sheriffs and to the forcefull collection of a poor tax in place of voluntary alms for the needy.

Again, in our own nation, the experience repeated. At the beginning, American pioneers knew no controls of government. From the time they came as refugees from Europe in the 16th and 17th centuries, until the close of the 18th century, government had little control over them. They flourished and grew prosperous and free, competing with the mercantile economies of Europe on a favorable footing. They bequeathed to us this heritage of personal freedom and human dignity.

Which system is practical? The systems which depend on powerful and centralized government are systems founded on war which, in the end, are defeated either by external enemies or by the stifling of creative energy within their borders.

Is this so practical? It was the "practical" men of Rome who taxed the people for the building of huge public buildings and public relief programs. Some of the buildings still stand as gaunt reminders of the oppressions of the Caesars. Is it practical to rob one generation for the erection of future ruins?

Freedom is a very precious and a very practical commodity. Our forward motion is tied to it as a people and as a species.

To The Point

Rockefeller Won't Win

By RUSSELL KIRK

Though the echoes of wedding bells may be ringing in Governor Rockefeller's ears, an eminent Republican tolled a funeral bell for Mr. Rockefeller's presidential aspirations, the other day. This political sexton is none less than Mr. Prescott Bush, formerly Republican senator from Connecticut, a moderate and highly respected leader.

Speaking at Greenwich, Mr Bush condemmed Mr. Rockefeller's divorce and remarriage in the severest terms yet uttered by any political figure. "Have we come to the point in our life as a nation," ex-Senator Bush asked his audience, "where the governor of a great state — one who perhaps aspires to the nomination for President of the United States — can desert a good wife, mother of his grown children, divorce her, then persuade a young mother of four youngsters to abandon her husband and their four children and marry the governor?"

Rockefeller has ignored the sanctity of the American home and family, Mr. Bush went on to say; and he wanted to know what Abraham Lincoln would have said to this. "Have we come to the point where one of the two great political parties will confer upon such a one its highest honor and greatest responsibility? I venture to hope not."

Well, if Mr Bush hopes not, Mr. Rockefeller hasn't a Chinaman's chance of winning the votes of Republican delegates in almost any state of this Union. Mr. Rockefeller's strength has been greatest in New York, New Jersey, and Connecticut. If Republican leaders in those states already repudiate him, he will have great difficulty in remaining governor, let alone in winning the presidential nomination.

Governor Rockefeller is said to have been convinced that his remarriage would not injure his political prospects. No calculation could have been more remote from reality. The vast majority of Americans, after all, are not divorced, and don't intend to be. Even divorced people may not tolerate conduct in the President which they indulge in themselves: Presidents are supposed to be national exemplars. And the peculiar circumstances of the Rockefeller divorce, as mentioned by Mr. Bush, have alienated most of what folk might have shrugged their shoulders at a divorce on better grounds. Perhaps the set with which Mr. Rockefeller travels take any divorce for granted: but the American public doesn't yet endorse the morals of cafe society.

In terms of popular politics, the Rockefeller divorce alienates the Catholics of the Northeast and the Protestants of the South and Middlewest. That doesn't leave Mr. Rockefeller with many adherents.

Some of the former enthusiasts for Mr. Rockefeller's candidacy now are shifting, hastily, to Governor Romney. Yet they may be too late. Even in Mr. Romney's Michigan, the Goldwater admirers are active today, raising money and forming a coherent organization. The Michigan Young Republicans are predominantly Goldwater-inclined. And Mr. and Mrs. Barry Goldwater aren't ever going to break up. Neither, I take it, are Mr. and Mrs. George Romney: but the Republican county chairmen know Senator Goldwater is a Republican — while Mr. Romney, until he entered the Michigan gubernatorial campaign, called himself not a Republican, but simply a "Citizen." The combination of party loyalty and marital fidelity is hard to beat.

These Days

Clash Below the Surface

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The spectre that is haunting the Democratic party as the racial issue crosses the Potomac going north has hardly been mentioned in the open by election strategists, but it is something that calls for the highest political skills if it is to be exorcized between now and 1964.

The spectre in question involves the economics of the northern Negro who is looking for upgrading in his job. Generally speaking, this Negro is not a skilled man. When you call the plumber or hire an electrician, it is a virtual certainty that a white man will show up — and if he brings an assistant to carry his tools the color of the assistant's skin will be white, too. In all the traditional crafts there is little more than token integration, and in the "father and son" unions the color line is drawn as part of an ancient monopoly.

In the mass industries it is somewhat better; Negroes work on the production lines in Detroit. Indeed, old Henry Ford started hiring them long before he would let an industrial unionist inside his plants. But even in the industrial areas of Michigan, Ohio, and Illinois, there is a problem posed by the nature of immigration from the hilly — and often higly prejudiced — regions of the back-country South. The anti-Negro "red necks" have come North, too.

TIGHTROPE

To be sure, the Republican politicians must declare themselves on race issues no less than the Democrats. They must balance on a tightrope on the states' rights issue simply because they belong to the party of Abraham Lincoln, who overrode the states' righters in his day. But the Republicans' dilemma is as nothing when compared with the Democratic party's dilemma, not only in the South but north of the Mason-Dixon line.

Making a pitch for the votes of the common man, the Democrats of the North have carried off many a triumph by putting the labor vote together with the so-called "ethnic" vote. When the race issue was mostly a question of providing relief for Negroes or putting them on political payrolls, there was no searing conflict between the labor vote and ethnic considerations.

However, now that the northern Negro has declared himself, through such organizations as the Urban League, as being unwilling to "wait," the issue between two traditional supports of the Democratic politicians is joined. The tight craft unions must be prepared to give scope to Negro apprentices. This is the crux of the situation — and it is not going to be dismissed easily.

If the Negro is to escape from this business of "waiting," he must be able to earn real money. The business of "busting" a recalcitrant white block in a good residential area involves more than an abstract possession of the civil right to live anywhere. It involves a quite mundane down-payment on real estate. And to make a down-payment, one must have more than a hod carrier's income.

OBSTACLES

In the nature of things, the politician who is competing for the Negro vote can't transform waiters and hod carriers into skilled electricians and plumbers and linotype operators in a few days. The politician can only guarantee that Negroes will be hired on government projects. True enough, he can persuade the businessman to give jobs to Negroes provided they have the ability to do the work. But businessmen can't throw skilled jobs to Negroes when hypocritical union apprentice practices stand, like so many silent Governor Wallaces, in the way.

This pervasive problem of riding the Negro "ethnic" horse and the balky craft union horse at one and the same time is the problem of the hour. It is not an immediately pressing problem for the Republican party for purely fortuitous reasons. The Republicans, in the North, happen to draw their prime sustenance from the suburban districts, where the race problem does not yet obtrude. The Negro, when he has earned some real money, will be moving to the suburbs, and when he gets there, the Republicans will have to reckon with the problem of race consciousness. But this will not pose itself as a big Republican issue for 1964. It is an issue the Democratic Party will have to meet simply because Democrats have been in power in the cities.

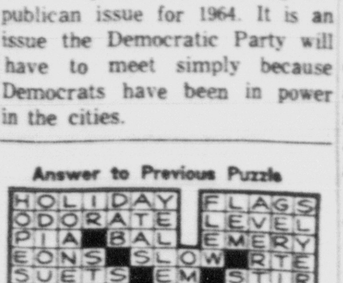
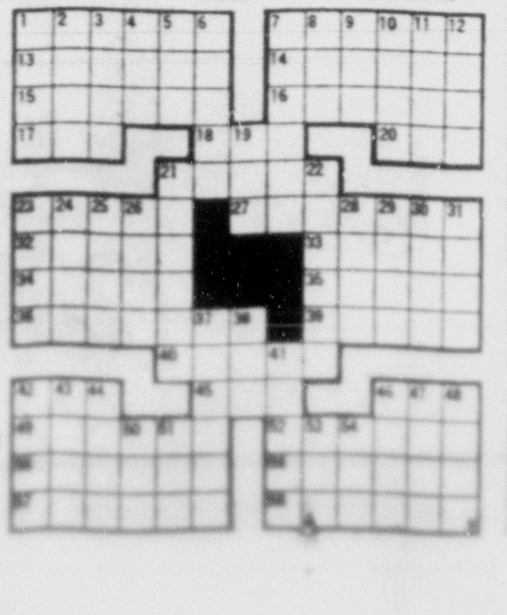
Answer to Previous Puzzle





IT'S UP TO YOU

By
Howard E. Kershner, L.H.D.

Dr. Kershner

OUR government has just announced a new foreign aid grant to Laos amounting to 11½ million dollars for the current year. Just a year ago aid from our country was suspended in order to force the right wing government of Laos to form a coalition with the neutralists and the Communists. This having been done our country resumed giving aid. Here we have a clear example of our policy of promoting the left while opposing the right.

Moreover, this is being done while American boys are being killed in South Vietnam by Communist soldiers who are supplied from the north by routes running through Laos and by guerillas who take shelter in Laos when the South Vietnam forces aided by American helicopters and other equipment make it too hot for them.

To my mind, aiding a country which shelters our enemies comes perilously close to treason which I believe is properly defined as giving aid and comfort to the enemy.

The Cuban underground is now reporting two side effects of the ransom of Bay of Pigs prisoners which are far more important to Castro than the main issue. The first of these is a renewal of the promise to the Cuban dictator that there would be no invasion, either by the United States or the Latin American countries, and second, that the large quantities of morphine that Castro demanded and received will enter into the dope traffic at enormously increased prices and be dumped right back into the United States. Thus, we have stepped up the distribution of dope in our own country and multipled the net amount accruing to Castro as a result of the ransom of these prisoners.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question No. 262: "If I remember correctly, in one of your Question Boxes you claimed that one could not reason unless he used an assumption or an hypothesis to be used as a standard.

"Now I would like to place a question, if that be true, then can a man use his conscience as a safe guide unless an eternal, moral principle is used as a standard?"

Answer: It would seem that one's conscience could not be a very good guide and would be very dangerous if it was not disciplined enough to believe there are moral absolutes that do not change with time or place. It is generally rational to believe that you cannot be loyal to two opposite standards of rightness.

That would mean that, because the majority decided a thing was right, it would not be right unless all the individuals in the majority had a moral right to perform the act.

Numbers cannot make an immoral act moral, right, or virtuous.

Multiplying one million by zero, the result is still zero.

Conscience is really just a form of the unseen method of reasoning.

And the best anchor to a conscience is the Human Relations Commandments, which are summarized in the Golden Rule. And as we understand it, the Golden Rule is one of the basic religious tenets that have been useful to mankind.

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

Effect and Cause

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, Ph.D.

In the world of politics, attempts to study causes and effects are frowned upon and for obvious reasons. Since government invariably guesses wrong, one way or another, causes must be ignored while the sorry effects are studied. For instance:

A traffic signal is installed at an intersection. Three months later a survey shows that traffic accidents are increasing at this intersection. Government, never willing to admit mistakes, unless it accidently spends too little money, surveys the situation and begins installing more traffic signals. After that, a few warning signs are erected and finally a few more traffic officers are assigned to the location and the cause of the increased accidents is ignored.

In every socialist country in the world, the adult crime rate continues to climb and juvenile delinquency is increasing. There are many reasons for increased crime and suicide under socialism but socialist and totalitarian governments of every description are not about to take the blame for the conditions they have created. Increased crime, juvenile delinquency and suicide provide proof of the fascist-socialist nature of our own government. To pretend we have neither socialism nor fascism is to ignore the evidence which is obvious to anyone who cares or dares to think.

Adult and juvenile crime, suicide, relief chiseling, doles and irresponsibility walk hand and hand with the socialist conglomerate; in fact the socialist conglomerate depends upon these evils to increase the size and cost and power of government If the crime and juvenile delinquency rate were sharply reduced, thousands of government workers would be loafing around and even the most cynical elected public servant would find it difficult to justify the expense. This is an important point to remember: Government thrives on trouble. Self-responsible people do not require government.

When we look at this subject from a personal point of view, it's easy to see the dim and almost obscure path which leads to the road to freedom. If we behave as law-abiding human beings, we do not, ourselves, increase the size and cost and power of goverment. If we accept our responsibilities as parents, our children do not become involved in activities which increase the power and cost and the size of government. When government drives us almost beyond reason with unjust and ridiculous laws, we cannot help ourselves by becoming breakers of ridiculous and unjust laws. Our best bet, always, is to behave as responsible, law-abiding human beings. It isn't always easy.

Let's take the case of the man who refused to obtain a building permit in a Pacific-Northwest area. When a county employe told him the law demanded that he obtain a building permit, he refused. He went right on about his business, feeling he'd won an important battle and he finished the building of his home. Then he received his tax bill. The county assessor had added the cost of permits and inspections on to the assessment and the man who thought he was building a home he could own found himself in more trouble. He had a choice of paying or waiting until the county attached his house and lot. He paid the bill and tried to forget the whole thing.

Now, it seems to me that a man who believes he should not be compelled to obtain a permit to build his own shelter, should not build where such permits are necessary. He may still be able to find his own place in the sun, where a building permit is not required and there he can build what he wants, if he hurries. Secondly, he can decide not to invest his time and earnings in a home which he will not really own after he finishes the job, with government as it is today.

Certainly it is wrong if a man may not build what he wants to build at his own expense and on his own piece of land but I am not discussing right and wrong, only conditions as they exist, today.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

PLEASURE OUTING

To the Editor:

While camping in the wooded forest and mountain range areas, hikers, picnickers, put your litter in trash barrels.

Douse your camp fires with a pail of water several times. Mix ashes with a couple of shovels of dirt before you break camp.

Hot, humid, dry weather is upon us. So be awfully careful while you smoke and light matches.

Keep the forest green and healthy with a pure cool pine scent. Enjoy your visit-trip, so it can be a pleasure outing, always. Not to be a litterbug helps prevent forest fires.

Allen-Scott Report

Red-Trained Agents Enter U.S.

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Hundreds of Moscow-trained agents are entering the U.S. as Cuban refugees.

These Spanish-speaking Communists, some of them veterans of the Spanish civil war, have come in with the thousands of Cuban refugees who have been admitted to the U.S. since last fall's missile crisis.

According to sworn testimony before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee by reliable, anti-Castro refugees, the Red agents are concentrating on infiltrating the splintered refugee groups and are a principal reason for the seething dissension among them.

A highly regarded attorney in Miami, representing a number of these Cuban organizations, has turned over to the senators detailed evidence that Dictator Castro and Russian henchmen personally selected about half of the passenger list of one Red Cross ship that recently brought approximately 1,000 refugees to the U.S.

This startling information is supported by intelligence reports that the Kremlin is using the Cuban refugee traffic as a means of infiltrating Moscow-trained agents into the U.S. and Latin American countries.

The Miami attorney, who requested that his identification be kept secret because of the classified nature of his activities, bluntly blamed this extraordinary situation on the lax screening of refugees by immigration authorities.

He flatly charged that policies of the Kennedy administration, as formulated by the State and Justice Departments, are permitting hundreds of Red agents easy access to the U.S. while barring anti-Castro raids on Cuba.

The Senate committee, headed by Senator James Eastland, D-Miss., plans to ask FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover for his expert views on the number of Russian agents who have entered from Cuba and the danger they present to the country's internal security.

CONTROVERSY

The Kennedy administration has no "hard intelligence" to support the State Department's curious claim that Russia does not have sufficient troops in Cuba to exert control there.

According to the latest estimate of the Central Intelligence Agency, the Soviet still has "between 12,500 and 17,500" troops in Cuba. The most recent report of the Defense Intelligence Agency places the number as high as 32,000.

Neither the CIA nor DIA estimates support the State Department's disclaimer on the control of Cuba. Instead, both intelligence agencies have considerable evidence that Cuba's foreign policy is laid down by Moscow, and Castro is administering it with the "advice and consent" of five Russian generals stationed in Cuba.

It is definitely known that Secretary Rusk was all set to announce that Russian combat forces had been withdrawn from there when this column revealed that CIA and military intelligence authorities were refusing to back such a declaration.

Administration insiders are saying privately the White House "advised" Rusk to change his statement to the effect that "there is a thinning out of Soviet troops."

This carefully-worded explanation was slipped to a hand-picked group of newsmen at a dinner given by Rusk ostensibly to brief them on the President's European trip.

THE DISPUTE

This intelligence dispute has been raging inside the administration since early this month when the White House mysteriously ordered the first low-level reconnaissance flight over Cuba since last February. Until this flight was personally approved by the President, at least a half-dozen requests for such missions by military and intelligence authorities had been turned down.

Aerial photos of this low-level flight revealed that two Soviet camps had been evacuated and that Russian combat units had left these areas. The photos also showed new Soviet military depots, indicating the Russians were apparently trying to secrete their equipment.

On the basis of this information, CIA and military intelligence are strongly inclined to the view that Soviet combat units are still on the Island. This belief is further supported by the fact that there is no positive information that the troops have been withdrawn, altho their exact whereabouts are unknown.

INSIDE WHITE HOUSE

President Kennedy and Senator Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., have one thing in common. Both have ailing backs and both are being treated by Dr. Janet Travell, White House physician. Senator Goldwater, who has a pinched nerve that acts up occasionally, introduced Dr. Travell to the President. Senator J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, has told the White House he intends to proceed with his "examination of domestic pressures in the U.S. in behalf of the Israeli government," despite demands by members of the Committee to drop the probe. The Arms Control & Disarmament Agency has asked the Massachusetts Institute of Technology to ascertain what makes Premier Khrushchev and other Kremlin leaders tick. The agency has given MIT a $65,000 contract for a study of Soviet leaders' motivations and the objectives they believe would be served by arms control and disarmament measures.

Care of a Baby Genius

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE, Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: Though our 6-year-old girl can remember nothing she learns in school, her father got her through her first grade reader in one night. She is a demon artist; sees everything in terms of pictures and angers her teacher by making little Christmas candles out of the "i's" in her name. At home she calls the teacher by the name of a fairy tale cat which scared all the mice. Her school says she's "immature" and hints there's something mentally wrong with her. We always knew that she would clash with the world and so fear it will crush the strangeness we love in her. We have seven other youngsters . . .

ANSWER: Schools often refuse to recognize baby swans in ugly, noncomforming ducklings. Your child may be a baby swan. So my earnest counsel is to get her tested by an intelligent psychologist who knows the difference between insanity and the artist's nature. You need his authority to withstand the anxiety you've been made to feel.

You and your husband both see a baby artist in this child, don't you?

O.K. Then you must help her to gradually admit this world you fear will "crush" her. For the difference between an artist and a mentally sick person is his attitude toward the world. The mentally sick person turns his back on it. But the artist gets into it with both feet. He lives in it, suffers in it, loves and hates in it until his passions so gather in him that he is forced to shout them in the form of a Ninth Symphony, a Purgatorio, a Picasso's Guernica. He only turns his back on the world long enough to express his vision of its good and evil. Then he admits it again to gather enough love and hate to explode again in paint, music or poetry.

Thus, the parents of an artistically gifted child dare not try to protect him against the world. Instead, they have to strengthen his capacity to live in it.

If an unperceptive first grade teacher frightens him with demands that make him uneasy with himself, they must understand the wisdom of requesting demotion to kindergarten, where reduced pressure will allow him to make all the Christmas candles he wants to out of the "i's" in his name.

CHURCHILL ARRIVES HOME

LONDON (UPI) — Sir Winston Churchill, looking tired and pale, arrived home Thursday from a holiday in Monte Carlo and a cruise among the Greek islands.

The 88-year-old former prime minister, an unlit king-size cigar in his mouth, was helped down the steps of an airliner and driven straight home.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

For years I have enjoyed corn on the cob. But getting the butter on the corn and "keeping" it there can be exasperating. But it's easily remedied.

Put the butter on the concave side of your "fork" and then rub the convex side along the ear of the corn. Both the fork and the butter will get warm, "but" the melted butter will drip slowly "through" the fork tines to the corn.

Rapid and efficaceous! —Mr. J. G. Barry

Dear Heloise:

Please tell your mothers not to cut up those old sheets and make small sheets for the new baby's bassinet. It's a waste . . .

Use old pillow cases or make cases from the old sheets. These will exactly fit over the mattress in a bassinet.

A sheet usually needs to be changed at the exact moment that mother's hamburger is burning. But if you use pillow cases, the mattress may be turned over and the case is all fresh and clean on the other side.

I suggest that mothers place a piece of rubber sheeting in the bottom of the bassinet before putting in the mattress. Then bassinet will always be clean. —Mommy

Dear Heloise:

There are only two left in our family . . . our kids are all grown, married, etc., so we use lots of frozen dinners — both store-bought and homemade.

I have found that instead of lighting the oven to cook the metal trays of food that I can use my electric roaster. I can put two dinners in it, and without wasting an oven full of heat or getting my kitchen hot, these two dinners cook beautifully.

And did you know . . . that you could also take some couple types of frozen dinners out of the freezer ahead of time and let them completely thaw before placing them in your oven or cookers, especially if they are homemade and the food is entirely cooked. You not only save time but fuel because the don't have to cook as long. Try it! —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I "like" the odor of our favorite cologne.

I always add a few "drops" before I pour the water into our steam iron.

I have been using this hint for years. So far it has never hurt my steam iron.

All of our clothes that we iron, carry this fragrant odor which seems to come from nowhere! Our closets and chests-of-drawers even smell fragrant.

We have sweet - smelling, — dresses, handkerchiefs and, yes, . . . even blue jeans!

Besides, now it's a pleasure to do the ironing with the sweet aroma . . . —Vic

Dear Heloise:

When brewing tea in quantity for hot or iced tea . . . fasten all the cardboard tags which are on the end of the string of each tea bag with . . . guess what A pinch type clothes pin!

Put the tea bags in the water and let the clothes pin hang over the edge of the container.

After the tea is brewed, you can remove all the bags at once by lifting the clothes pin! —Nora Kasdob

West contrived a neat swindle to hoodwink the declarer in today's hand.

The four heart contract was reached with dispatch and West opened his fourth best spade. North's ten forced out the ace and East shifted to the ace of clubs. He continued with the queen and declarer was in with the king.

South played the ace of hearts from his hand and West followed quite nonchalantly with the ten. He had been doing some thinking on his own and he realized that, if declarer were left to his own resources, he would cash the top heart honors and then lead toward the dummy's jack—thus restricting West to one trump trick. Only drastic action on West's part could alter his opponent's course.

The fall of the ten of hearts gave South something to think about. Now that the defense had cashed their two aces, his only concern was in holding his trump losses to one trick. Of course, if West's heart holding consisted of the queen-ten doubleton, South could score an overtrick by playing the ace next to drop the queen. If the ten was a singleton, however, the play of the ace would surrender the contract, for it would establish two heart tricks for East.

South finally decided to make a safety play in the trump suit. He crossed over to dummy with a diamond and led the jack of hearts. If East followed with a small heart, declarer intended to let the jack ride. If the finesse lost, South's contract would be assured because the trumps must now break.

When East failed to follow to the jack of hearts, it was revealed that declarer had been conned into making a losing play, for West could not be prevented from winning two trump tricks.

Lobster: Salad Star

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Planning a Fourth of July buffet party on the porch or lawn? We served a buffet supper recently that was so successful you may want to hear about it.

The long table was not cluttered with a lot of little things. There was a handsome heirloom platter with slices of rolled top sirloin of beef; two deep black china bowls from South Africa filled with lobster-potato salad; mustard and sliced dill pickles; a platter of two kinds of thinly sliced bread; a monkeywood hors d'oeuvres server from Hawaii filled with radish roses, endive spears, celery hearts, cucumber sticks, black and green olives; a wooden tray of assorted cheeses and crackers; and a silver bowl of finger fruit. There was also a large green and white frosted cake with fresh orange filling. Coffee, of course. Both the cake and coffee were served on a separate small table to prevent crowding of the buffet.

The lobster-potato salad was a sensation. We had to give most of our guests the recipe. So now, thinking you will want it, too, here is your copy:

Lobster-Potato Salad
(6 servings)

6 (4-ounce) South African rock lobster tails
2 pounds potatoes
½ cup diced onion
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper
1½ cups mayonnaise
¼ cup heavy cream

Place frozen rock lobster tails in a large kettle. Cover completely with cold water. Bring water to boil and boil two minutes. Remove loster tails at once. Cut away thin underside membrane and remove meat from shells. Chill. Boil potatoes; drain and peel. While still warm, cut in cubes in bottom of large bowl. Add onion, salt and pepper immediately. Mix mayonnaise with cream until smooth. Pour over potatoes and onions and leave in a thick top layer. Cool, then chill. At serving time, cut chilled rock lobster tails into bite-size pieces, add to potato bowl and toss together until all ingredients are well blended.

BETTER CARE FOR PREMATURE BABES — The Colorado Springs CARE Committee helped make possible the donation of four Isolette incubators to the infant care section of La Altagracia Hospital in Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic. The center provides the only free maternity care in the city of Santo Domingo and an average of 80 babies a day are delivered at the hospital. Many of these infants are pre-matures and the incubators that CARE provided are the only ones the hospital has for the most modern treatment for these babies. Part of the cost of the incubators was raised at the Colorado Springs Denver Designers Fashion Show held last March at the Colorado Springs Country Club. Mrs. Wallace Lundquist, chairman of the Fashion Show and the Colorado Springs CARE Committee, said that plans are already under way for next spring's show. An unidentified nursing sister is pictured with a pre-mature infant in one of the new Isolette incubators made possible by the Colorado Springs CARE Committee show. It is estimated that the lives of at least 50 infants a month will be saved with the new incubators.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

It's Illegal—Period!

DEAR ABBY: Our son is 16 and very popular. We finished off our basement so he could entertain his friends there. We put in a TV, stereo and billiard table. Last Saturday night he had six couples in for a party. We served sandwiches and soft drinks. We have a rule — no beer or liquor. The next morning, while cleaning up, I found several empty beer cans and an empty vodka bottle hidden behind the TV. We questioned our son and three of his friends. One boy admitted to bringing the beer. A girl had brought the vodka from home. We told them it was against the law for minors to drink. They tried to tell us it was okay if done in a private home. Please print this with your comments in case we need something more concrete to show them. —MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: It is against the law for minors to drink "anywhere." And if you need something more concrete to show them—how about the sidewalk?

DEAR ABBY: For years I have written all the letters to my husband's relatives. Yet I'm sure he would never write mine even in an emergency. And would you believe it, Abby, when we hear from his people all the letters are addressed to him and him alone? When they close, as an afterthought, they add, "Oh, say hello to your wife." I once got angry and told him to write his own letters. So he got even with me by putting a five-or ten-dollar bill in all the letters, and he knows we can't afford it. I've just about had it with my husband and his clan of ill-mannered morons. Tell me what to do and I'll do it. —HAD IT

DEAR HAD IT: You are overreacting to your husband's spitefulness. Ignore his needling and it will sting less.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is in his 60's, but sometimes he acts like a 2-year-old. Whenever we go to the big store to do our shopping, and get separated from each other, he hunts up the store manager and says his wife is "lost,, and asks to have my name blasted all over the store on the loudspeaker. Everyone snickers because they start looking around for a "lost" child — and it's me — a gray haired grandmother. They probably think I'm not all there. How can I break my husband of this foolish habit? —GRAY HAIR

DEAR GRAY: When you and your husband enter a store, agree on a meeting place (under the clock, or at the south door) and have an understanding that if you should become separated, you MEET THERE.

Confidential to Mother of Three": The time to put your children to bed is when you can.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

MUSHROOM CHICKEN

2 ½ pound ready-to-cook broiler-fryer, cut up
¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon paprika
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 can (6 ounces) broiled whole mushrooms
Evaporated milk, undiluted
Medium sherry

Coat chicken with a mixture of the flour, salt, pepper and paprika. Brown well in butter in a large skillet; cover and cook until tender, turning as necessary — 30 minutes or longer. Remove chicken and keep warm. Add liquid drained from mushrooms to skillet; stir over low heat to get up browned particles. Remove from heat. Add enough undiluted evaporated milk (1-2 to 2-3 cup) to make a thin sauce; strain, if you like, and return to clean skillet. Add mushrooms and sherry to taste; heat but do not boil or sauce will curdle. Replace chicken in skillet and serve. Makes 4 servings.

When you are doing your "big" kitchen cleaning, don't forget to change shelf paper or other covering on shelves in high-up cupboards. This is particularly important in warm weather.

Kansas Townsmen Grown On 'Atheist Community'

STOCKTON, Kan. (UPI)—The prospect of having an atheist settlement near this western Kansas is not popular with the citizenry.

"It is the movement of one man here which I think is quite out of step with the community," said the Rev. Karl Schuster, pastor of the First Methodist Church.

Mrs. Madalyn Murray, the Baltimore, Md., atheist who successfully carried the Bible reading and prayer case to the U.S. Supreme Court, announced Monday she would establish a mecca for atheists on a 160-acre tract here.

Carl Brown, a retired farmer and former state legislator, said he donated the land to the project. He described himself as a "free thinker" who became interested in Mrs. Murray's effort after reading news accounts of the Supreme Court decision.

A home for the aged, a university, radio station and a printing plant were expected to be included in the complex.

"Mr. Brown is a very public spirited person," the Rev. Mr. Schuster said, "and he's a personal friend of mine. But faith in God is necessary for the progress of our community."

Herbert Jones, Chamber of Commerce president, said the settlement "would not sit too well with most people in the city." Stockton is a town of about 1,600.

Citizens feared that Brown would withdraw an earlier offer to donate money to build a home for the aged here, since it would duplicate one Mrs. Murray described in her announcement at Baltimore.

Other Americans, Inc., the atheist project, was incorporated in Maryland, with both Mrs. Murray and Brown listed as founders. Mrs. Murray, who indicated she was unable to find work because of her controversial views, said she had raised $100,000 to start the center.

"Pokie," the turtle, is presented each Sunday to the school department with the poorest attendance the previous week. The current possessors are listed in the church bulletin and attendance has been going up as each class tries to make sure it isn't "stuck" with the turtle.

British Reporter Ends Sentence in Prison

LONDON (AP)—Reporter Brendan Mulholland walked to freedom today after four months in jail for refusing to break the newsman's unwritten code — never divulge secret news sources.

The columnist for the London Daily Mail was cheered by crowds of fellow newsmen as he stepped through the gates of a prison in Sussex.

Mulholland originally had been sentenced to six months in jail for refusing to say who told him that William John Vassall was a known homosexual.

Vassall, and admiralty clerk, was convicted of spying for Russia.

THESE DUCKS ARE WHISTLING SWANS — These newly hatched whistling swans, thought to be the first of their breed ever hatched in captivity in this country, waddle around on their cage at the Sather Game Farm near Worthington, Minn. The birds, looking much like ducks, were hatched in an incubator. Roy Schumm, a game farm employe, huddles them together for the picture. Biologist Glen Smart found the eggs on a trip last month to Hazen Bay on western part of Alaska. The eight eggs, returned by air, have all hatched. Sather says whistling swans never lay eggs while in captivity, but he hopes by raising captive swans from infancy to change this habit. (AP Wirephoto)

Nazareth Was Historical

By CARL C. CRAFT

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Was Jesus from Nazareth? Indeed, was there a Nazareth in his time, or was it invented to satisfy pilgrims to the place where Jesus lived?

A workman's accidental discovery of a fragment of a Hebrew inscription on marble may help answer these questions. The fragment is being studied by the Israel Department of Antiquities of Hebrew University.

Shalom Attiah noticed the chunk of marble in his wheelbarrow at an excavation site at Caesarea, Israel, on the Mediterranean Coast.

Dr. Jerry Vardaman, archaeology professor at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, who had charge of the digging, recalled that workmen had been told to be watchful because some searchers were growing disheartened and careless near the end of the season.

The seminary has a copy of the fragment, which is said to add to evidence that Nazareth did exist is the time of Jesus. The inscription on the marble was part of a list of Jewish priestly families and the towns where they lived in Galilee.

Authorities place the fragment in the period of the late second to the fourth century A.D. Dr. Vardaman said the inscription contains the earliest known Hebrew references to Nazareth.

Many scholars have contended that Jesus lived in Choraizin or Capernaum. The Name "Nazarene" as applied to Jesus sometimes is said to refer to a pre-Christian religious group.

Skepticism on the subject was noted in the Encyclopedia Bibliqia:

"It is very doubtful whether the beautiful mountain village of Nazareth itself was really the dwelling place of Jesus. No such town as Nazareth is mentioned in the Old Testament, in Josephus, or in the Talmud."

Dr. Vardaman said he is certain some sort of settlement existed at the present site of Nazareth in Jesus' time.

He said recent excavations there—along with the prize fine of the fragment—have produced strong archaelogical support for the scriptural statement that Jesus was from Nazareth.

CONTRACT AWARDED

AURORA (UPI)—A joint bid of $4,274,235 by W. A. Smith Contracting Co., Kansas City, Mo., and Quad Construction Co., Golden, has won the contract to build a 5½-mile tunnel northwest of Leadville, for the Homestake Lake water development. The water project will provide more water for Aurora and Colorado Springs, and will cost an estimated $57 million.

Bobby Unser Wins His Sixth Straight PP Hill Climb Title

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

He did it again!

Bobby Unser of Albuquerque won his seventh championship car division crown during the 41st annual Pikes Peak Hill Climb July 4th. Unser, who was the first leadfoot specialist to soar up the 12.42 miles in under 13 minutes, won the big car division on Independence Day with a blistering 12 minutes and 30.6 seconds.

Unser registered his sixth consecutive victory in record-breaking time and became the lone driver in Hill Climb annals to win that many straight. He bettered his own winning time last year by a whopping 20 seconds.

Parnelli Jones, the 1963 Indianapolis record-breaking winner, walked off with top laurels in the stock car division and nipped last year's victor, Curtis Turner of Roanoke, Va. Jones wheeled his 1963 Mercury up massive Pikes Peak in record time when he was clocked 14:17.4. This bettered Turner's time last year by 38.1 seconds. Turner copped second place with 14:20.3; altho he bettered his own mark it was short of Jones, the driving whiz from Torrence, Calif.

Ak Miller of Pico Rivera, Calif., drove his Devin-Ford 427 across the finish line in 14:27.7 to win his second straight victory in the sports car division. Last year the amiable Mr. Miller won the unlimited sports car division in his Devin-Ford via 14:29.3. He bettered his own mark in this year's "race to the clouds" by 1.6 seconds.

In the championship car division some nine drivers encountered mechanical malfunctions which resulted in their failing to complete the race. Al Unser, brother of seven-time winner, Bobby, was a top favorite to give his older brother a run for top laurels. But the younger Unser experienced problems near the conclusion of the race.

Al rammed his Chevrolet powered championship car onto a rock formation only one mile from the finish line. He ran across a large boulder that had fallen in the path of his vehicle and couldn't avoid hitting the side of the mountain. Al had to walk to the finish line and thus was eliminated from further contention. Last year he finished in second place to his brother with 12:54.6.

Paul Kleinschmidt of Colorado Springs made the 12.42 jaunt, composed of some 166 rugged curves, in his own 365 cubic inch Cadillac V-8 championship car in 13:12.5. He nipped Wes Vandervoort, another local driver, for second place. This was the 12th time Kleinschmidt had competed in the annual race and it was his fastest time to date. Previous to this year's Hill Climb, Kleinschmidt had always managed to run in the money, but fourth place was his highest position.

Kleinschmidt, who is co-owner of Dale and Paul Auto Service, Inc., stated that he plans to build another car for next year's race to "give those Unsers a run for it." In addition to his racing abilities, Kleinschmidt is also an accomplished mechanic and constructed his Coors Special from the ground up in 1954. A resident of this city for 28 years, Kleinschmidt is that breed of daredevil driver that races mainly for the enjoyment and for the thrill of cheating the mountain of "her" challenge.

Colorado Springs' drivers made a clean sweep of the top five spots in the championship car division with the exception of Bobby Unser, of course. Wes Vandervoort finished in third place behind Kleinschmidt via 13:18.0.

And local leadfoots Roy Walker and Clyde McFarlin copped fourth and fifth respectively. Walker ran the course in 13:26.5 while McFarlin turned in a time of 13:35.9.

Among the nine drivers failing to complete the race were: Al Unser; Ted Foltz, Colorado Springs; Joe Lehman, Denver; Rick Vermillion, Colorado Springs; Bert Groves, Colorado Springs; Bill Lacy, Casper, Wyo.; Terry Dodds, Casper, Wyo.; Gib Ligon, Colorado Springs, and Jerry Mans, Wood River, Ill.

Orville Nance of this city experienced mechanical problems when he lost his fan belt. But the competitive Nance wouldn't give up and made the necessary repairs to finish the race. Considering these factors, his time of 39:20.9 was understandable. At least he finished the race which is an accomplishment in itself.

Miller was the first driver to kick-off the race in lieu of this year the Hill Climb officials elected to run the sports car first, followed by the championship cars and the stock cars were the finale.

The unassuming Mr. Miller drove his Miller-Hanson Special to beat out two local drivers, Thom Jamison and Al Daniels. Jamison placed second with 14:37.4 to nip Daniels by six-tenths of a second. Jamison drove a Corvette while Daniels wheeled a Stingray.

Bob Montana of Phoenix could only muster eighth place in his Lotus Mark XI Valiant with 16:25.9. It was the first run for the much-talked-about-vehicle, but Montana found the Hill Climb too exhausting for the lighter than the others sports car entries. His Lotus was puffing after the rough trip up the mountain.

Prior to last week's three-day practice sessions and last Tuesday's time trials, racing experts thought that the Lotus would be a tough competitor. But Montana found his vehicle too light to conquer the mountain in winning time.

Only Dan Morgan of Pueblo, driving Ak Miller's AC-289 Ford, and Jack Guynn of Manitou Springs failed to complete the race. There were 13 entries in sports car division.

Bill Chapman of San Louis Obispo, Calif., sporting a beard and a AC-Garter Snake 3500 cc Buick Special, almost didn't make it. The Californian took 28:55.3 to complete the 12.42 mile course, but Chapman had problems with his fuel pump. He had to switch over from electrical to a mechanical type fuel pump, but still managed to finish the race.

The Parnelli Jones-Curtis Turner duel in the stock car division gave the Indianapolis 500-Mile record-holder the edge. Turner, who was defending his title, commented that he had problems with his brakes. It seems that Turner's 1963 Ford brakes were locking on the curves, but the stitches to close a cut on his head second place.

Nick Sanborn Jr. of Cascade, Colo., who was injured in a passenger car while riding with Parnelli Jones last week, elected to drive his 1963 Ford himself. And he finished in remarkable time considering that Nick required 24 stitches to close a cut on his hea Sanborn rammed his vehicle up the mountain in 14:34.5 to finish behind Frank Sanborn, also of Cascade, and copped fourth place out of a field of eight stock car entries. The latter Sanborn was clocked at 14:30.3 to place third behind Jones and Turner.

Altho the weather was overcast and sprinkled with an occasional rain showers combined with hail, the road was reported by the drivers to be in excellent condition. Several of the daredevil race drivers remarked that the road was in the best condition they had seen in many years.

SEVEN-TIME HILL CLIMB WINNER—Bobby Unser of Albuquerque nears the finish line of the 41st annual Pikes Peak Auto Hill Climb, July 4. Bobby roared up the 12.42 mile course up massive 14,110 foot Pikes Peak in record time via 12:30.6 This was the sixth consecutive time the Albuquerque daredevil driver won the championship car division in record-breaking time. He is the lone driver in the annals of Hill Climb racing to win that event six times in succession. Bobby bettered his mark last year by 20 seconds. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

Protest Dies When Unser's Car Is Checked

By CHARLEY DREUX

Regardless of how much is at stake, in a sporting event there will always be a limited amount of disagreement and dissension among the participants.

This is especially true when there is a larger pot at stake and the participants drive high powered vehicles in rugged competition. Perhaps the losers sometime search for a way out, a way to explain their failures. The least path of resistance is an official protest.

And the 41st annual Pikes Peak Hill Climb, July 4, is no exception. Jack Hahn of Cheyenne, Wyo., who drove his championship car to sixth place, filed a protest with James J. Reilly, U. S. Auto Club Rocky Mountain Zone Supervisor, and President of the Pikes Peak Auto Hill Climb Association.

Hahn protested that Bobby Unser of Albuquerque, who won the championship car division title for the sixth consecutive time, was running an engine larger than the race rules allowed.

Hahn looked up four unwilling Hill Climb championship drivers to chuck up the required $25 bond to file the protest. But Reilly and his associates found that Unser's engine was a full 40 cubic inches below the legal displacement limit (366.077 cubic inches).

Unser's engine measured 326.5 cubic inches, and thus the protest was groundless. And it cost Hahn and his unwilling cohorts $25 to discover Unser was above approach. Unser remarked that his brother, Louie Unser, wanted to build the engine larger and still remain under the legal displacement limit, but Bobby thought the 326.5 cubic inch Chevrolet powered engine would suffice. And it did!

Reilly commented that the engines of entries in the Hill Climb are not inspected unless a protest is filed.

Bobby Unser picked up first place prize money of $2,500 for winning his sixth Hill Climb championship car division title, and picked up approximately another $1,000 in accessory money from the various national manufacturers, providing he used their product in the race.

Parnelli Jones, the 1963 Indianapolis 500-Mile record-breaking winner, picked up $1,500 in purse money for winning the stock car division crown. Jones also picked up nearly a $1,000 in accessory.

Ak Miller, of Pico Rivera, Calif., defending his title in the sports car division. Miller won first place in that event and picked up the $750.00 purse. He also won accessory money totaling nearly $1,000.

STOCK CAR CHAMPION — Parnelli Jones, the 1963 Indianapolis 500-Mile record-breaking winner, nears the finish line to win the stock car division title in the 41st annual Pikes Peak Auto Hill Climb, July 4. Jones turned his 1963 Mercury thru the 12.42 mile course in 14:17.4 to defeat last year's victor, Curtis Turner of Roanoke, Va. The Torrence, Calif., native rammed his race vehicle up massive 14,110 foot Pikes Peak in blistering time to better Turner's time last year by a whopping 38.1 seconds. Turner finished second with 14:20.3. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

Youngsters' Interest Turns To Bands, Artist States

Interest in football has a direct — and unhappy — effect on potential players of stringed instruments, according to Abraham Skernick, first violist with the Cleveland Symphony and visiting professor of music at Colorado College this summer.

And the deleterious effects are part of a continuing trend in America. How? Because American youngsters interest is in football, but their musical tastes run to bands rather than orchestra. There are more boys and girls playing wind instruments and fewer are learning strings.

"It used to be difficult to find enough players of clarinets, flutes, piccolos, oboes and bassons for amateur groups," explained Professor Skernick. "Now it is just the contrary, for we find that even some of the lesser symphony orchestras are having trouble finding stringed instrumentalists for their organizations. The kids are simply more interested in bands than orchestras, at least for their own participation."

Prof. Skernick added, however, that appreciation of music is at an all-time high in this country today, with concert attendance and record sales booming. "Many people were worried that television and records would mean that live performances would suffer from lack of interest," he said. "But I believe they have stimulated appreciation of good music."

He added that the Cleveland Symphony season tickets are always sold out before the opening concert, the same happy situation prevailing in the large cities such as New York, Boston and Philadelphia.

Skernick will be the featured artist in the next concert of the college summer series Friday at 8:30 p.m. at the Fine Arts Center. His solo work will be Brahms' "Sonata in E Flat, Opus 120 Number Two." He stated that this was among the last half dozen Brahms compositions and was originally written for the clarinet. Brahms then transcribed this and another work for the viola.

In a joking mood, Skernick continued: "There is always an argument between clarinetists and violists about the composition. The clarinetists claim it is best when played by them because it was originally written for clarinet. The violists retort that once Brahms heard it on the clarinet, he decided it would be better on the viola."

A native of New York, Skernick held his present post with the Cleveland Orchestra since 1949. He participated in the Casals Festival at San Juan, Puerto Rico during the past three summers, and last year was solo violist and instructor with the Chautauqua Symphony and School of Music.

A limited number of single tickets will be available to the public for this concert, the second in a series of six, on Friday evening at the Fine Arts Center desk. The featured artist in next week's program will be Giorgio Ciompi, violinist.

Oils Resume Top Position in Market Trading

NEW YORK (AP) — Oils resumed a dominant position as the stock market moved slightly higher in dull, postholiday trading early this afternoon.

With many Wall Streeters away on a four-day weekend, there was little excitement. Gains of most stocks were fractional. Many leading issues were unchanged and quite a number took slight losses.

Some of the oils advanced a point or better.

Big Three motors were all higher. Rails moved uncertainly in view of the chance of a nationwide railway strike next Thursday. Steels were unchanged to a shade lower.

Selective demand in various issues of the important stock groups kept market averages a bit on the upside. As usual, movements among the higher-priced and more volatile stocks were wider. Some posted gains of 2 or 3 points.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .4 to 273.2 with industrials up .9, rails off .3, and utilities up .3.

As the oils advanced, gains of a point or close to it were scored by Texaco, Getty, Sinclair, and General American.

Gains by Ford, General Motors, and Chrysler were fractional.

Gains of around 3 were made by Xerox and IBM. Polaroid gained more than 2. Control Data over a point.

Moderate losses were taken by U.S. Steel, Kennecott, Southern Railway, Sears Roebuck and Montgomery Ward.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.49 at 715.85.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were mixed.

Corporate bonds were narrowly mixed. Most U.S. government bonds were unchanged.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP)—Trade in the grain futures market was at its slowest pace of the week today and prices turned generally lower on profit cashing for the weekend.

Brokers said some of the selling apparently was linked with reports of rainfall over the holiday in parts of the major corn and soybean producing areas and forecasts of additional scattered showers during the weekend.

Estimated carlot receipts were unavailable today.

British Fashion Experts Urge Hat for Kennedy

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—A British fashion magazine today stepped up its campaign to persuade President Kennedy to wear a hat and pointedly asked him how a hatless man can properly greet a lady.

"How does the President acknowledge such an encounter?" asked Tailor and Cutter in an editorial, which the editor said he was sending to the White House.

Tailor and Cutter is recognized here as an arbiter of good taste in men's clothing and, in some cases, men's manners.

Speculating on how Kennedy greets ladies, the magazine suggested he might do it with:

A brief and courteous bow.

A hearty handshake.

A blade-crushing clap on the back.

"Or," added the magazine, "that peculiarly American greeting—the flat palm of the hand sliding upwards and outwards across the greeter's face and the cheerful injuction, 'Hi'm'"

The magazine said none of these would do—especially if the President greeted someone such as Queen Elizabeth II—and suggested:

"The deft touch of a raised hat, politely pinched between thumb and forefinger and held for a hesitant moment over the wearer's heart, would bring a bright spark of gallantry to those modern diplomatic moves which seem to have lost so much of their old world glamor in the current rush for time-saving practicalities."

Woman Falls off Cliff; Condition Listed Good

A 26-year old woman, Marda Lehman of 3842 N. Nevada Ave. fell off a cliff Thursday in the Pikes Peak area. She was taken to St. Francis Hospital and this morning a spokesman described her condition as "fairly good."

According to Deputy Sheriff Bob Newman Miss Lehman had gone for a walk with another girl who did not see her fall as she was walking ahead. The report says she fell about 75 feet.

The lowest state of the Union is Florida, whose highest elevation is 345 feet.

Polish Writers Warned New Freeze Planned

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Wladyslaw Gomulka has warned Poland's writers and intellectuals that dissemination of ideas hostile to communism will not be permitted in Poland.

The Polish Communist leader issued the warning Thursday at the 13th general meeting of the Polish United Workers (Communist) party, called to bring independent-minded Polish intellectuals closer to the line laid down by the Soviet Communist party last month.

The Polish party, which continued its closed sessions, is expected to create a new office of press, propaganda and culture under a cultural czar.

Communist sources said, however, Poland is not about to use the kind of suppression practiced in the Soviet Union. It was suggested that Gomulka returned from a meeting with Soviet Premier Khrushchev in Berlin last weekend feeling that, because of the Soviet-Chinese dispute, this is not the time for drastic measures.

Two Injured As Car Hits Bridge Thursday

Two Ft. Carson men were injured when their car smashed thru a bridge abutment on U.S. 85-87 about 17 miles south of Colorado Springs early Thursday morning, according to the State Patrol. Both were taken to Ft. Carson Hospital.

The driver, James Baugh, 23, received a possible back injury and lacerations on his face.

Robert Johnson, 24, the lone passenger in the car, suffered a severe head injury, according to the report.

State Patrolman Jake McDaniel said their car was north bound when it went thru the abutment, flying 42 feet in the air and landing below the bridge in a creek. It then flew another 361 feet in the air, finally coming to rest on its wheels.

Herbert Hale Rites Set for Saturday

Funeral services for Herbert Carl Hale, 614 Manitoba Dr., who was drowned near Del Norte, Colo., will be held at 9 a.m. Saturday at the Swan Drawing Room. Dr. W. G. Schaefer will officiate. Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery.

No Charges Filed In Death of Child

Police said today no charges have been filed against a Ft. Carson couple whose infant son died June 27 in Ft. Carson hospital.

The infant, Eulious Edward Stinson, 21-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Eulious Stinson Jr., was suffering from "severe anemia" due to basic malnutrition according to police reports released Thursday.

The infant was taken to Carson hospital at 9 a.m. June 27 and died at 8:45 p.m.

Dr. Raoul Urich, county coroner, said the infant "died of malnutrition an dextreme anemia."

The child apparently had been fed an all-milk diet with no solids included. Police said they felt there was no intent on the part of the parents to deprive the child of an adequate diet but that the all-milk diet was a result of "ignorance."

Cornell Crew Breaks Even In Regatta

HENLEY, England (AP)—Cornell crews broke even in the Henley Royal Regatta today with the Big Red's heavyweight eight gaining the finals of the Grand Challenge Cup and the lightweight boat losing in the quarter-finals of the Thames Challenge Cup.

The heavyweight crew covered the one mile 550 yards on the River Thames in 6:59 to defeat the London Rowing Club by three-quarters of a length.

Cornell's lightweights bowed by 1 2-3 lengths to Queen's College of Cambridge. The Britons were timed in 7:08. They took an early lead and led by 1¼ lengths at the half-mile marker. The Americans closed the gap but never were able to catch the smooth rowing British collegians.

Philadelphia's Amlong brothers—Tom and Joe—won their third race to reach the finals of the Silver Goblets for double sculls.

They defeated A. J. Sutton and P. J. Sharp of Britain by approximately four lengths in 8:57. Rowing into a stiff head-wind they built up a two length margin the first half-mile and opened it up to 3½ at the mile.

Dyrol Burleson Outruns Weisiger In Coast Meet

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Dyrol Burleson outran Cary Weisiger down the back stretch and coasted in for a 4:00.3 minute victory in the mile at the Oregon AAU track meet Thursday.

Burleson, National AAU champion, was 15 yards ahead of Weisiger of the Marines who finished in 4:01.9. Third at 4:07 was Archie San Romani Jr. of the University of Oregon. Jim Grelle of the Los Angeles Striders dropped out with an injured foot.

The meet was slated to field many of the nation's outstanding performers as a warm-up for the U.S. trip to Russia. But several of the top athletes withdrew at the last minute.

The high jump was won by Lew Hoyt, national collegiate champion from Southern California, at 6 feet, 10 inches. At the same height but with more misses was Paul Stuber of the University of Oregon.

Ralph Boston took first in the high hurdles in 14.2 seconds. Boston, Los Angeles Striders, is the nation's No. 1 broad jumper but took second Thursday to Darrell Horn who leaped 25-1.

Horn, a former Oregon Sate University athlete now with the Air Force, also was first in the triple jump at 48-¾.

The only other double winner was sprinter Dave Blunt of the University of Oregon with a 9.7 seconds 100 and a 22.0 seconds 220.

Injuries, missed plane connections, a need to rest and job committments were listed by those failing to appear.

Hunting and Fishing

By DICK MOORE

A 3,000 acre spruce budworm control project of Pike National Forest was called off at the last moment this week according to information received by the Colorado Game and Fish Department from the U.S. Forest Service.

Dwight Hester, branch chief of forest pest control for the Rocky Mountain Region, explained that the aerial spraying project was all set to go and suddenly the worms started dropping off the trees—dead.

Hester was at a loss to explain the sudden mortality rate of the spruce budworms, but said natural factors have reduced the budworm population to the point where the area doesn't need spraying.

He explained that the spruce budworm is the most widely distributed and destructive forest insect in North America. The adult is a moth, with the larvae a worm.

The budworm develops from egg to adult in 12 months. When the larvae hatches aerial spraying must be undertaken to halt the infestation otherwise the larvae defoliates the host tree.

Once a tree has been attacked by the budworm it has the overall appearance of being scorched, as if by heat. By winter the tree has a ragged appearance, with some nearly devoid of needles.

The fishing report from the Southeast Region this week indicates that the high lakes in South Park area are still frozen over. Most other lakes in this region are open and normal. Arkansas River is normal and clear. High lakes in Sangre De Cristo range now free of ice and trails are fair. Roads thruout the region are generally good.

Man has a natural tendency to limit his exertions on an input-output basis, a fact which has a concrete bearing on small game hunting, according to the Wildlife Management Institute.

It seems that humans labor when the rewards are equal to or greater than the value of the time, money and effort exerted to obtain them. And it works the same way with the nation's millions of hunters, too.

Because study after study has shown that hunting effort—especially for rabbits, grouse, pheasants, squirrels, and other small game—dwindles rapidly long before the animals are reduced to anywhere near a level that would jeopardize the following year's breeding stock.

The Institute says that small-game hunters traditionally harvest too little game, not too much. By shooting wildlife on experimental areas at rates three to four times those known to be achieved by hunters, scientists have shown that much larger bags of game could be taken.

But many hunters lose interest in tramping the field once the animals are scattered from their more accessible haunts.

As gun pressure decreases after the opening day bulge, the chances of overshooting small game become more and more remote. So it seems that this human trait of matching input against output is more instrumental in controlling the harvest of small game stocks are not jeopardized. and possession limits.

This well-established fact has prompted a decision in many states to set the longest possible small game seasons in order to supply extra outdoor recreational opportunity for those hunters who wish to take advantage of it.

Hunters benefit from it, as do businesses that supply goods and services, and moreover, future game toscks are not jeopardized.

Little Miss Muffet may have been the first one to run when a spider sat down beside her — but she certainly won't be the last.

Spiders probably have more people think less of them than any creature on earth; after all some people collect snakes as pets, but how many keep pet spiders?

According to the National Pest Control Association, whose members specialize in doing away with unpleasant insects, arachnids (for such is the spider) and other pests, this is really a shame.

Spiders — one of the most numerous of living things — are also one of the most useful. With the exception of a handful of members of the family, spiders are harmless to man, but are devastating foes of man's costliest enemies, the insects which battle with humans for control of the earth's food supply.

Spiders' reputations aren't enhanced by some of their pastimes—such as building a web to trap the unwary passing victim, by the habit of many females of the species of murdering her mate (from which the black widow draws her name) and by their generally sinister appearance.

After all, a hairy-bodied, six-or-eight-eyed, eight-legged creature isn't likely to qualify for any Miss America contest — even among fellow arachnids and insects.

Spiders have been among the most successful creatures in adapting to myriad environments. They are found from the arctic to the tropics, from the edge of the sea to the snowline of the mountains, in the desert and in the jungle.

They range in size from four-inch giants capable of catching and devouring mice and small birds, to the tiny spiders no bigger than gnats which live by the millions in the grass of lawns and pasture.

In between are a host of varieties — some 25,000 in all — with vastly differing habits, appearance, color, feeding patterns and homes.

Their only common denominator, points out Dr. Philip Spear of the National Pest Control Association, is their voracious appetite for insects. Probably no other species — even birds — consume insects in such astronomical total tonnage.

Thus, points out Dr. Spear, mankind would be wiser to think of the spider as a friend rather than foe.

He isn't urging that anyone sit still when like little Miss Muffet, a spider sits down beside one. But in any event, notes Dr. Spear, just getting up and calmly walking away is quite enough — leave the spider to do its good work in reducing the insect population.

A program designed to alleviate landowner-sportsmen trespass conflicts was recently inaugurated by the Colorado Wildlife Federation. Essentially the program assures that each member of the Colorado Wildlife Federation will act as a gentleman and a sportsman if the landowner will allow the member to fish or hunt on his property and then backs the promise up with a guarantee of $100 against any property damage a member might cause.

Cards will be issued to Federation members which will read SPORTSMEN'S GUARANTEE AGAINST PROPERTY DAMAGE.

It should be understood that the Guarantee shown on this card is NOT an insurance policy. It is, when presented to a landowner, a promise to conduct yourself as a sportsman, backed up by your fellow members of the Colorado Wildlife Federation who have faith in your good sportsmanship. We do not believe we have a member who thinks so little of the friendship of his fellow members as to violate this faith. The Colorado Wildlife Federation has confidence that our member, whose name appears on the front of this card, is a gentleman and a sportsman. May we request that you allow him to hunt and fish on your property with the understanding that if he in any way damages your property or livestock, and refuses to make settlement, we will, upon presentation of his name and proper proof of damages, pay for said damages up to the amount of $100.00.

GOOD ONLY FOR THE LIFE OF MEMBERSHIP PERIOD SHOWN ON OPPOSITE SIDE.

Membership information on this program can be gained by writing to Dr. F. G. Freemyer, Box 300, Greeley, Colorado; Dr. R. M. Hansen, 1709 Morningside Drive, Fort Collins, Colorado; or G. E. Kimble, Box 402, Swink, Colorado.

Exports Needed To Fight Loss Of Dollars, Gold

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Mending American trade and financial fences with Europe doubtless got attention from President Kennedy on his recent trip along with his preoccupation with political and nuclear arms pacts.

The United States needs increased exports to fight its loss of dollars and gold to foreigners. Put the other way around, the United States needs to have European trade barriers lowered rather than raised, if our exports are to flourish.

But the European Common Market is moving toward uniform tariffs against outside goods including American. In some European countries this uniform wall could mean higher tariffs on American products, rather than lower, because at present the levies vary markedly from country to country.

President Kennedy and President Antonio Segni of Italy announced their two nations would work toward greater volume of trade between the two countries.

Much of the outcome of U.S. attempts to lower trade barriers still depends on the attitude of President Charles de Gaulle of France. On his upcoming visit to Germany, De Gaulle may discuss with German officials how they reacted during the presidential trip to any American proposals for lowering trade barriers.

Along with improving trade relations with Europe, President Kennedy's trip may have had some bearing on building still higher the defenses of this and other Western nations against any speculative runs on their currencies.

The United States, powerful and prosperous as it is, needs such defenses now. The persisting growth of dollar assets held by foreigners puts pressure on the dollar and increases the potential threat on our gold reserves, dwindling from time to time as foreign banks turn in their dollars for gold.

European central banks and the U.S. Treasury and Federal Reserve Board have a pact that so far this year has held these gold losses to a minimum despite a rise in the trade deficit. But even this dam couldn't hold forever, if U.S. deficit build the dollar reserves abroad ever higher and higher.

MY ANSWER

by Billy Graham

N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

QUESTION: My husband and I are elderly, and he thinks it isn't necessary to have physical check-ups because we are old and ready to go. I believe that we as Christians should maintain good health as long as possible. What is your opinion? — R. G.

ANSWER: Every Christian has a responsibility for caring for the body that God has given, for it is the dwelling place of his immortal soul. It is also the dwelling place of the Holy Spirit, if that individual is genuinely Christian.

It is written by the Apostle Paul, I Corinthians 6:19, 20, "Know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Spirit which is in you, which you have from God, and ye are not your own. For ye were bought with a price: glorify God therefore in your body." From this Scripture it appears that the age makes no difference whatever. The elderly person as well as the child has this responsibility under God to care for his body as the temple of the Holy Sprit.

You and your husband, though elderly, may still have your most effective work to accomplish for Christ. That is why it is essential to give the proper care to our physical body as long as God gives it to us. It is not a question of being ready to go. Every Christian should be ready to go at any moment. But he should also be ready to serve. For that reason any habits that are damaging to our physical vitality are wrong in God's sight, and any neglect to give the body the care it needs is equally wrong.

QUESTION: What does the word "jesting" mean in Ephesians 5:4? —P. C.

ANSWER: The verse you refer to is: "Neither filthiness nor foolish talking nor jesting, which are not convenient, but rather giving thanks."

Some interpret this to mean that Christians should never engage in lighthearted conversation, but I do not share this view. Notice the words: "which are not convenient." As you have observed, some people try to make a joke out of everything. They make puns during serious conversation, and their remarks are inappropriate and out of harmony with the intent of the conversation. Life to them is a big laugh, and to them, nothing is sacred. This is what Paul was talking about: "foolish talking, and jesting, "which are not convenient." The Bible says: "there is a time to laugh," and I believe that Christians have more good, clean fun than anyone else in the world. But we must strive for balance. I would paraphrase this Scripture this way: "Let not your conversation be weighed down with frivolity and inharmonious jesting, which are not in good judgment, but talk of the things you shouid be thankful to God for." There is a time for lightheartedness, but there is also a time for gratitude and soberness.

QUESTION: Wouldn't it be a better world, and wouldn't people be better too, if all would take a minute every day to pray? —H. B.

ANSWER: Yes, I think that would be a splendid thing for everyone to do. I have always said that if we could just get people to stop for a few moments and think about their relationship to God, that there could be a moral revolution in our land. Most of us are too busy to give God even a passing thought, and yet everyone of us must take time to die.

A young girl I heard of, lay upon her bed with a fatal illness. She was the only child, the idol of her parents, and her every whim had been gratified. When the girl was told that she was to die, she said to her mother with tearful eyes; "Mother, you taught me how to walk, how to dress, and how to dance, and how to comport myself in society, but one thing you forgot to teach me, and that is how to die."

One minute in prayer would be fine, but a life lived for the one who died for us would be better.

Injunction Against New School Fought

DENVER (UPI)— The Summit County School Board has asked the Colorado Supreme Court to dismiss an injunction against building a new school.

Robert Swanson, attorney for the board, presented the request to the high court Tuesday.

Dist. Judge Francis Shallenberger last fall granted the injunction when a group of Summit County citizens protested the school was to be built without a vote of district residents.

Court Rules Against Radio News Practice

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Pennsylvania Supreme Court has ruled unanimously that radio stations and other competitors cannot use local news from a newspaper without the paper's permission.

"If the news company can establish by proof that the broadcasting company has, without authority, used the local news items gathered through specialized methods and by the trained personnel of the news company, such unauthorized use constitutes a violation of a property right," the court ruled Tuesday.

The case concerned a suit by the Pottstown Daily Publishing Co., which prints the Pottstown Mercury, against the Pottstown Broadcasting Co., operator of radio station W.F.A.Z.

Doug Ford Holds Lead In Canadian

TORONTO (AP)—Old pro Doug Ford, who takes a two-stroke lead into today's third round of the Canadian Open golf tourney, was talking about his own game, but the statement would apply much better to young Ed Moehling.

"In this tournament, you can get run over very easily," Ford said after his four-under-par 67 Thursday that gave him a 36-hole total of 136.

And Moehling, 22, on his first professional tour, would have to agree. The slim youngster from Mt. Prospect, Ill., held the first day lead with a brilliant 66, then floundered to a 78 and was eight strokes back going into today's play in the $50,000 tourney.

"I'm not too chipper," he admitted. "I was playing badly at the first hole and I just couldn't recover."

Ford, 40, on the other hand, said he was at the peak of his game.

"I have been playing better this week than I have all year," he said. "I've been working on my game and I hope things stay the way they are right now."

It would be hard to argue with that sentiment.

Ford, who plays out of New York's Tam O'Shanter Club, used sparkling approach shots to set himself up for four birdies, canned another on a curling 30-foot putt, and had only one bogey.

Herman Keiser, 48, who won the Masters in 1946 and retired from full-time tour competition in 1949, was in second with a 70-68—138 for 36 holes of the 6,419-yard, par 36-35—71 Scarboro Golf Club course.

Tied for third at 140 were Canadian George Knudson, 72-68, and George Bayer of Pasadena, Calif., 70-70.

Bunched at 141 were Dick Mayer of Palm Desert, Calif.; Dow Finsterwald, Tequesta, Fla.; Gene Littler, Rancho Bernardo, Calif., and Jack Fleck of Los Angeles.

The bulky field of 156 was trimmed to 87 for the final two rounds, with 149 the cutoff figure after 36 holes.

Holiday Gate Below Last Year

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Major league baseball's 17-game July 4 program attracted 220,556 fans, a slight dip from last year.

In 1962, with one more game on the schedule, 224,866 clicked through the turnstiles. The National League drew about 2,000 more this year, but the American League dropped off about 6,000.

The NL had a turnout of 117,047 with the AL drawing 103,509. The biggest crowds turned out for the Chicago-New York games in each league. The Chicago White Sox met the Yankees at New York before 38,180 while the New York Mets met the Cubs at Chicago with 32,654 looking on.

Entire Cardinal Infield To Start All-Star Contest

By DAVID HEEREN
United Press International

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI)—Because manager Alvin Dark ignored the players' "mandate," the National League All-Star team will present an historic "first" next Tuesday when all four starting infielders will be members of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Usually All-Star managers in picking reserves for their squad stick mighty close to the way the players themselves voted earlier in choosing the starting lineup.

Dark followed that practice in most cases, too — but in picking a second baseman he skipped over Ken Hubbs of the Cubs, who was runner-up to Bill Mazeroski of the Pirates in the voting for the starting team, and instead picked Julian Javier of the Cardinals. And that's what will make history in the midsummer classic at Cleveland.

For Mazeroski is bowing out of the game with an injured leg muscle.

And that makes Javier a starter right alongside his three Cardinal teammates who were voted into starting berths — first baseman Bill White, shortstop Dick Groat, and third baseman Ken Boyer. It will be the first time in All-Star history that the entire starting infield will be composed of members of the same team.

Dark had to make one extra selection because of Mazeroski's dropout, but instead of another second baseman he picked pitcher Larry Jackson of the Cubs.

Dark ignored the players' vote in two other spots, passing over two Cincinnati Reds who were runners-up in the balloting — left fielder Frank Robinson and center fielder Vada Pinson. His outfield choices were Roberto Clemente of the Pirates, Willie McCovey of the Giants, Duke Snider of the Mets and Stan Musial of the Cards.

In addition to Spahn and Jackson, other pitchers picked by Dark were Juan Marichal of the Giants, Ray Culp of the Phillies, Jim O'Toole of the Reds, Hal Woodeshick of the Colts, and Don Drysdale and Sandy Koofax of the Dodgers.

In addition to Javier, other infield reserves picked by Dark were first baseman Orlando Cepeda of the Giants, shortstop Maury Wills of the Dodgers, and third baseman Ron Santo of the Cubs.

To back up elected catcher Ed Bailey of the Giants, Dark picked Johnny Edwards of the Reds, and Joe Torre of the Braves.

Former Buff Bill Toomey Wins National Pentathlon

SEATTLE (AP) — Bill Toomey, former Colorado University track star and three-time champion representing the Santa Clara, Calif., Youth Village, won the National AAU Pentathlon Championship Thursday with two firsts and a second for a total of 3,365 points

Russ Hodge of the U. S. Air Force was second with 3,222 points and former University of Oregon star Dave Edstrom, a member of the 1960 U.S. Olympic with 3,188. Edstrom is now in the Air Force.

Another former Olympic performer, Phil Mulkey of Birmingham, Ala., wound up fourth with 2,837.

The rest of the 11-man field finished in this order:

John Albitz, Penn Hill, Pa., Striders, 2,645; Job McGladrey, Larson AFB, 2,620; Keith Avera, Seattle Olympic Club, 2,616; Don Conner, Seattle Olympic Club, Dennis Peacocke, Seattle Olympic Club, Ross Aragon, Albuquerque Track Club, 1,953 and Ralph Heritage, U.S. Army, 1,667.

Neither Aragon nor Heritage finished the 1,500 meters run.

Toomey won the broad jump and 200-meter run, finished second in the 1,500 meters and third in the javelin.

His broad jump of 24-feet 3 inches set a stadium record and won him 922 points. He also picked up 889 points in the 200 meters with a wining time of 22:2 seconds.

Observation Period Ends For Sternberg

SEATTLE (AP)—Doctors say they may know late today the extent of the injury to Brian Sternberg, paralyzed University of Washington pole vaulter whose best leap is pending as a world record.

Dr. George Ojemann, resident neuro-surgeon at University Hospital, said Thursday case histories of injuries similar to Sternberg's indicate a three-day observation period.

The 20-year-old vaulter was hurt Tuesday evening when he lost control while executing a somersault on a trampoline and fell 14 feet, landing on his neck and shoulder. He has been paralyzed from the neck down since.

Upset Wave Hits Broadmoor With Top Favorites Ousted

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Noise was the order of the day across the nation Thursday and the Broadmoor joined in the run of patriotism with its own unique fireworks display.

The explosions at the Boardmoor come on the golf course where the 21st annual Women's Invitational reached the semi-final round. After Thursday's firing, the two top favorites were not around to answer roll call as the semis teed off this morning.

In fact the tournament had only one name familiar locally among the final four, a testimony to the increased proficiency of this year's field. Natasha Fife, who has been in the finals the past five summers, was shooting for six today cutting down Ann Quast Welts, of Mt. Vernon, Wash., 3 and 2, in one of Thursday's two stunners.

The other big news was made by 16-year-old Janis Ferraris of San Francisco who joined the ranks of the giant-killers by removing defending champion Barbara McIntire from the field by a 2 and 1 score. Also going down was Jean Ashley, who lost to Nancy Roth of Hollywood, Fla., 1 up. That meant that of Colorado Springs' proud threesome of Curtis Cuppers, Miss McIntire, Miss Ashley, and Judy Bell, none survived the quarter-finals.

The poised, long-belting Miss Ferraris had an opportunity to continue her workmanship pattern today but the toil was to be no less arduous. She met Carol Sorenson of Janesville, Wis. in the top-bracket semi-final and Miss Sorenson has been looking increasingly like the lady to beat in this week-long endurance run. Strong, and with all the shots, Carol has dominated all of her three matches, including Thursday's 4 and 3 win over Barbara Fay White of Shreveport, La. Regardless of Miss Ferraris' capablities, Miss Sorenson had to be the favorite in that match today.

Mrs. Fife, playing at least as well as she ever has in her appearances here, may be the class of the field. She made virtually no mistakes in the conquest of the peerless Mrs. Welts and if her smoking putter continues to serve her as well as it did Thursday, she could very well be the third three-time champion of this event by late Saturday afternoon. Only Babe Zaharias and Judy Bell have previously won three titles here and that is rather elite company.

Today Mrs. Fife was to meet one of the hottest young amateurs in the nation is Nancy Roth. Miss Roth has been mowing down championships with frightful regularity along the tournament trail and she has certainly lived up to her dark-horse rating in this competition.

Thursday, Miss Ferraris had the upper hand over her famed opponent advantage until Barbara launched a rally with a masterful twisting putt of 35 feet for a birdie at the seventh hole. Miss McIntire then won eight and finally went ahead at nine but it was a short-lived lead.

Janis drilled a six-foot birdie from above the hole at 10 to square the match again then hit the par-five 11th in two and moved in front with her second straight bird. She went two-up with an eight foot putt at 13 and it looked like the end. McIntires, however, die hard and Barbara staved off disaster momentarily by holding a sensational chip shot from in from of the 15th green. She then blew a chance at 16, losing the hole, and was closed out at 17.

Natasha and Mrs. Welts traded birdies at three and four but Mrs. Fife won the next two holds to go into a lead she never relinquished. Putting flawlessly, she ran her margin to three-up after 10 holes and after Anne had won 11 with a birdie, the final break came as Mrs. Welts hit an un-Welts-like tee-shot at 12 and lost the hole. She never pulled any closer.

Miss Sorenson methodically put her opponent away quickly. She won two of the first four holes, went three up at eight, and after losing the ninth hole when Miss White put together two excellent woods to hit the par-five green in two, Carol won the 10th and then put the match out of reach by hitting a brilliant shot from out of the steep front trap at 11 to within three feet of the pin for a birdie win.

Miss Roth had to rally furiously over the last few holes to overhaul Jean Ashley. Jean had a seemingly safe lead of three-up after 13 holes but then faded and eventually lost it to a four foot putt by Miss Roth on the 18th green.

* * *

McKinley Wins Crown In Wimbledon Tennis

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) Chuck McKinley, the bouncy belter from St. Louis, crushed Australia's Fred Stolle 9-7, 6-1, 6-4, today and became the first American to win the men's singles title of the Wimbledon Tennis Championships in eight years.

McKinley was the first American winner at Wimbledon since Tony Trabert in 1955. Stolle was never before even a semifinalist.

McKinley, 22 and a beaten finalist in 1961, won the title without losing a set along the way.

Billie Jean Moffitt, the bespectacled chatterbox of the courts, gets a chance to make it an American singles sweep Saturday when she faces top-seeded Margaret Smith of Australia in the women's singles final.

McKinley hurled his racket aloft in triumph. Some 18,000 fans had jammed the center court for the match.

The appearance of Stolle in the final marked the eighth straight year an Australian had figured in it—an unprecedented modern performance.

McKinley had a struggle on his hands only for the first 10 games. Then, at 7-7, Stolle cracked and it was never a contest after that.

The U. S. and Austrailia also will be pitted against each other in the finals of women's singles on Saturday when unseeded Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., faces top-seeded Margaret Smith of Australia.

Miss Moffitt, 19-year-old fireman's daughter, scored her third straight upset of a seeded player when she defeated third-seeded Ann Haydon Jones of England, 6-4, 6-4, in the semifinals Thursday.

Miss Smith, who will be a heavy favorite, needed only 46 minutes to win her semifinal from fourth-seeded Darlene Hard of Los Angeles, the top-ranked U. S. player, 6-3, 6-3.

Portland Takes Two From Bears

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Th curfew caught up with Spokane and the Hawaii Islanders in the second game of their doubleheader Thursday night, but the Indians already had won the right to host the Pacific Coast League All-Star game.

The host team for Monday's All-Star game was decided by the best percentage point record following July 4th play. Spokane's 6-1 win over Hawaii in the first game gave the Indians .576 to top the league.

Thursday's play featured errors, home runs and fine pitching.

Oklahoma City banged but four home runs to beat Seattle 6-3 in the first game, then bowed 9-2 in the second despite another pair of homers.

Portland's Lew Krausse pitched a three-hitter as the Beavers shut out Denver 5-0 in their opener and two unearned runs gave Portland a 4-3 victory in the nightcap.

An unearned run gave Salt Lake a 3-1 win over San Diego and Tacoma scored a flock of unearned runs en route to a 10-2 victory over the Dallas-Fort Worth Rangers.

Joe Mieller gave up only four hits and was backed by a 12-hit attack, including home runs by Al Ferrara and Bart Shirley, as Spokane won its 49th game of the season. The second game will be completed Saturday.

U.S. Vets Struggling In British

LYTHAM-ST. ANNES, England (UPI) — Two veteran U.S. pros, Claude Harmon and Herman Barron, faced an uphill struggle today in their attempt to qualify for the British Open golf championship next week.

Harmon, the 1948 Masters champion, shot a 76 and Barron, the current U.S. Seniors champion, a 75 in the first qualifying round Thursday as the nine Americans attempting to qualify were led by Bob Marshall and Jack Isaacs.

Marshall, from Huntington Beach, Calif., shot a 38-35—73 and Isaacs, from Langley Field, Va., a 38-36—74 over the 6,537-yard Fairhaven Links.

On the basis of the first qualifying round, officials estimated it would take a score of 148 or 149 to qualify for the championship proper.

The format of the tournament was changed this year with two qualifying rounds to determine the 80 golfers who will join 40 exempt players for the championship proper. The exempt players include defending champion Arnold Palmer, Masters champion Jack Nicklaus, PGA champion Gary Player and Phil Rodgers.

Among the other American entrants, William Castleman, Jr., of White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., shot a 76; Robert Sweeny of Palm Beach, Fla., a 78 and Ed Miller of Danville, Va., a 71.

Errie Ball of Oak Park, Ill., had a 77 and Clayton Graham of Park Ridge, Ill., a 94.

U.S. golfers listed to compete but who did not show up included Paul Bell of Naples, Fla.; Neal McGeehan of York, Pa.; Henry Timbrook, Jr., of Beverly Hills, Calif.; Truman Connell of Jupiter, Fla., and Dick Hendrickson of Clark's Summit, Pa.

Fords Sweep Three Places In Firecracker

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—The good name of Ford as the winner of the big ones was salvaged from the challenging Chevrolets Thursday when Glenn (Fireball) Roberts led a Ford trio across the finish line first in a hard-raced Firecracker 400 miler.

Until the 110th lap over the 160-circuit race at the Daytona International Speedway it was a duel between Chevrolet driver Junior Johnson of Ronda, N.C., and Ford jockeys Fred Lorenzen of Elhurst, Ill., and Roberts. Johnson's Chevy blew its engine on that turn leaving the field open for the Ford sweep.

One fender back at the finish line was Lorenzen, tail-gated by Marvin Panch, also in a Ford. Darel Dieringer of Charlotte, N. C., was fourth in a 1963 Mercury and Ned Jarrett of Conover, N. C., fifth in another 1963 Ford.

The win gave Roberts first prize money of $11,600. Lorenzen collected $7,015 and Panch got $5,110.

Rex Johnston Makes History

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Outfielder Rex Johnston of Columbus made history of sorts here in the first game of Thursday's International League doubleheader with Atlanta.

He stole two bases on one play in the fifth inning. He was on first base and Orlando McFarlane on third. The two executed a double steal. Johnston was already to second when catcher Bill Lefevre threw to shortstop Jerry Buchek. Buchek threw back to the plate, but McFarlane beat the throw and Johnston raced on to third.

Dodger Stadium in Los Angeles is the only major league park used by teams in both baseball leagues.

Yankees Grab Fat Lead But Houk's Pessimistic

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

Who's Ralph Houk Kidding?

He claims there's "still a long way to go" but it figures to be mostly downhill for the Yankees with a fat 4½ game lead and a Mickey Mantle due back in a week or so.

Houk is getting a little coy about any pennant talk and that's usually the tipoff on any manager who is beginning to think about which pitcher he will use in the first game of the World Series.

"Right now," Houk says, "I'm more concerned about which pitcher I'll start in Tuesday's All-Star game."

One pitcher who definitely will not start is Yankee southpaw Whitey Ford, who wasn't chosen to the American League All-Star team by Houk.

Ford could beef if he wanted to in view of the fact his 13-3 record makes him the top winner in the league. But he's just as happy to watch the All-Star game on television.

Whitey not only struck out 12 and won his ninth in a row by beating the Chicago White Sox, 9-1, in Thursday's opener but he also became the pitcher with the highest winning percentage in baseball history.

Ford's six-hit triumph over the White Sox, who snapped the Yankees' seven-game winning streak by taking the nightcap, 4-2, gave him a lifetime record of 118 victories against 74 defeats for a .718 percentage. He thus surpassed ex-Yankee Spud Chandler's .717 mark among pitchers with 100 or more victories.

The only run off Ford in the opener was Floyd Robinson's ninth inning homer but by that time the Yanks had the game wrapped up, thanks to Elston Howard's 16th homer and Roger Maris' 18th.

Juan Pizarro scored his 10th victory in the nightcap although he needed Hoyt Wilhelm's help in the seventh. Nellie Fox's two-run homer in the sixth off loser Bill Stafford proved to be the winning margin.

Elsewhere in the American League, Detroit won its first doubleheader of the year with a 5-3 and 3-1 sweep of Minnesota; Cleveland also took two from Boston, 4-3 in 14 innings and 7-5 Washington beat Kansas City two times, 2-1 and 3-2, and Baltimore defeated Los Angeles, 7-4, in a single contest.

The Tigers' two victories over the Twins gave them their longest winning streak of the season—three games. Phil Regan lasted only 6 1-3 innings in the opener, during which he was rocked for homers by John Goryl and Jim Hall, but still emerged with his fifth victory. Hank Aguirre evened his record at 7-7 with a six-hitter in the nightcap. Lee Stange (2-1) and Jim Kaat (8-7) were the losers.

Jerry Kindall homered in the 14th inning off Hal Kolstad to lead the Indians to their opening game triumph over the Red Sox and then socked a two-run homer off Chet Nichols during a four-run sixth inning rally that won the nightcap.

Early Wynn failed in his sixth try for his 300th victory when he had to leave the opener in the seventh inning with a stiff shoulder. He was leading 1-0 at the time on Fred Whitfield's fourth inning homer and although Whitfield connected again in the eighth, Boston tied the score at 3-all in the ninth. Gary Bell (4-5) and Jim Grant (5-8) were the winning pitchers.

Reliever John Wyatt of the A's balked in the winning run with the bases full in the eighth inning to give the Senators their opening game victory and then walked in the winning run with the bases full in the seventh inning of the nightcap. Moe Drabowsky and Diego Segui, however were charged with the losses. Tom Cheney (8-9) and Claude Osteen (2-6) were credited with the victories.

Reliever West Stock of the Orioles won his sixth straight without a defeat by blanking the Angels on three hits over the last sir innings. Jim Gentile's double with the bases full highlighted a three-run fifth inning outburst that brought Baltimore from behind. Bob Turley hit his first homer of the year but stil suffered his sixth loss in eight decisions.

Broken Legs Mar Centennial Race Program

DENVER (AP)—Two thoroughbreds suffered broken legs in races at Centennial Track Thursday and had to be destroyed.

One was Mutuality, the favorite in the feature race, who had won nearly $58,000 in five years of racing. He broke a hind leg soon after turning off the back stretch.

The other horse was Night Blaze, who fell after crossing the finish line sixth in the third race. His Jockey, Merle Armstrong, suffered a bruised foot, but the rider of Mutuality, Felix Chavez, was unhurt.

Local Baseball Takes Holiday Until Monday

Baseball took a holiday over the Fourth July and the break from scheduled play will last until next Monday when a full slate is on tap, as far as the varied Young America League program is concerned.

This is also true for the City Softball League, with the first round ending early this week. Round champions have been crowned with Benardo's using their undefeated record to win the City League round title, Telephone Co. copping the Industrial League and Central Colorado Bank winning the first round in the Women's Softball circuit.

In action Wednesday night, too late to be reported because of an early holiday deadline, the Lions Club Mets gained a tie as runner-up to Sertoma in the Junior Men's League of the YAL. Sertoma is unbeaten and the Mets and St. Mary's Colts with 4-2 records.

The Mets scored four unearned runs in the fifth inning to whip the Colts, 4-1, Wednesday behind the three-hit pitching of Ron Smith. Smith struck out 12 and walked five, holding the Colts scoreless thru the last six innings.

The Mets broke up a 1-0 pitching duel between Smith and Colt hurler Bill Savio when they jumped on relief pitcher Bob Gates in the fifth for four tallies. Hernand Rios and Freddie Romero started the inning off with one-out singles and Jim Bosworth reached base safely with two out on a catcher's interference call. Colt shortstop Dave Grantz then dropped Tommy Thompson's infield pop-up, allowing two runs to score, and Ned Owens singled home two more to end the rally.

In a Heavyweight League game at Memorial Park, Lucas Sporting Goods Beavers took full advantage of 15 Corpus Christi Colts errors to ridlle CCC, 26-2. Rick Kline and Mike Hendricks led the Beavers' 11-hit attack in the four inning contest.

Austin Extends League Lead

By United Press International

Austin's Senators were hotter than a Fourth of July firecracker Thursday night, whipping El Paso twice to extend to four games their Texas League lead.

Austin beat the Sun Kings 1-0 in the opener then 7-4 in the nightcap with home run help from Pat Houst in the first game and George Kopacz in the second.

Dick Dietz blasted a grand-slammer for the Sun Kings in the third inning of the finale but it wasn't enough.

San Antonio's Bullets took out Tulsa's Oilers 7-3 in the first game of a twin-bill but the Oilers came back for a 7-6 squeaker in the second game.

NOT A PICTURE

Dodgers Hurdle July 4 With Sweep Over Cards

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

The first place Los Angeles Dodgers can blow the pennant again — perish forbid — but only if they prove to be twice as bad as they were last year.

The whole thing boils down to a simple case of mathematics.

By out-slugging the St. Louis Cardinals, 10-7, for their fourth straight victory Thursday night, the Dodgers not only successfully got over the traditional Fourth of July hurdle but also increased their National League lead to 2½ games.

Exactly a year ago, they led by 1½ games but still lost the pennant to the Giants after a memorable three-game playoff.

If nothing else, the Dodgers have tradition on their side. The team leading the NL on July 5 has won the pennant 60 per cent of the time from 1900 through 1962. On the other side of the coin, however, is the haunting recollection of last year's collapse by the July 5th leader.

That didn't seem to bother the Dodgers a bit Thursday night as they routed Ernie Broglio during an eight-run rally in the sixth inning to erase a 4-2 deficit. Rookie third baseman Ken McMullen touched off the fireworks with a grand slam homer and Jim Gilliam's two-run double plus Willie Davis' two-run triple completed the carnage.

Ed Roebuck, the third Dodger pitcher, was the winner although he had to have help from Ron Peranoski after the Cardinals raked him for four runs.

In other NL action, the Houston Colts bowled over the Cincinnati Reds twice, 5-2 and 6-2; the Chicago Cubs swept a twin bill from the New York Mets, 2-1 and 3-0; Philadelphia defeated Pittsburgh twice, 1-0, in 10 innings and 5-1, and Milwaukee beat San Francisco, 6-3.

Rusty Staub's two-run homer sparked the Colts to their opening game victory over the Reds and Jim Campbell's grand slam homer in the eighth inning of the nightcap completed the sweep for Houston. Ken Johnson (4-11) and Dick Farrell (6-6) were the wining pitchers.

The Cubs, who climbed to third place with their two victories over the Mets, won the opener on a two-hitter by Glen Hobbie and the nightcap on Paul Toth's three-hitter. Luckless Roger Craig gave up only four hits in the first game but still suffered his 13th defeat and 11th in a row although both runs off him were unearned. Billy Williams and Ron Santo hit first inning homers off loser Carl Willey in the finale.

Art Mahaffey turned in a do-it-yourself performance for the Phillies when he held the Pirates to two hits in the opener and scored the winning run on Don Demeter's 10th inning single after leading off the frame with his second double off loser Bob Friend. Ryne Duren made it a sweep for the Phils with a three-hitter in the nightcap. Bobby Wine's two-run double during a four-run rally in the sixth helped pin the loss on Joe Gibbon.

Pope Confers With Cardinal From Poland

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI conferred Thursday with Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski, primate of Poland. Vatican sources said it could be assumed that the situation of the Catholic Church in Communist Poland was reviewed.

At the time of Pope John XXIII's death, the Vatican and Warsaw were examining closer relations, reportedly consular ties.

Parts of New Orleans are as much as five feet below sea level.

Pool After Breakfast Is Promoted for Women

By WARD CANNEL

NEW YORK (NEA) — Okay, a woman's place may not be in the home. But is it in a pool room?

Well, a lot of smart money hopes so. In less than a half-year more than 2,000 pocket billiard centers have sprung up in the United States—the most dramatic growth in the game in more than a generation, and with the biggest promise of expansion and profit than any time since the Civil War.

And who is going to make that promise pay off? Yes indeed, the sweet little Average American Housewife, bowling, television and kaffeklatch, and looking for new midmorning surcease from her happy labor-saving home.

The answer, according to investor, is pool — a game that requires skill but not stamina, attention but not preseverance, and only a little time and money.

It's the kind of game that can be played while the automatic laundery does the clothes, or while the frozen victuals thaw to room temperature for the kiddies' lunch. It's the kind of game that would be perfect for the shopping center.

And that's just where it is. Or across the street from the Chinese restaurant (dinners to take out). Or conveniently close to the commuter railroad station (in case the train is late).

But it's like no pool hall you ever heard of. Gone is the heavy mahogany table and its traditional green top. Gone are overhead bulb and the half-window curtains on tarnished rings, once the outward signs of wheeling, dealing and disrepute.

Today's billiard emporium is a fall of soft light in an aura of time-tested melodies. The mahogany and green have been replaced by a persuasion of decorator colors.

And in place of those disreputable boys of yore are the wives of your best friends, taking instruction in stick-shot and English from a cute little dish is who is probably working her way through medical school.

The price of all this joy is about 75 cents per hour per person, which, in 12-table-emporium, can make its operator upwards of $360 a day on a $20,000 investment — if he can count on filling his tables with players starting at 11 a.m.

And who in our age has time for a couple of 11 o'clock racks of snooker, eight ball or rotation? Right, again: the dear little critic on the hearth.

Behind the comeback of pool, of course, is the leveling off of a decade of bowling mania when it was odds-on that a man had to phone the alley if he wanted to talk with his wife in midmorning or early afternoon.

How he'll feel about calling the pool room is another matter. In New York, for example, it is still against the law to list a billiard center as a pool parlor. What happened to the pool emporium's public image, in fact, is reflected in statistics: 42,000 in 1929 and fewer than 8,000 in 1960.

Aware of what this industry is facing, a spokesman for the Mosconi Centers says:

"You can build the game with women, but you just can't count on them to be your bread and butter. If this thing is going to go, we've got to have what bowling has: national amateur championships, and local playoffs, and handicaps, and . . . well, like that."

He didn't say Little Leagues. But after all, the kids do get out of school at 3 p.m. And there are those long vacations.

Coal Producers Asked To Aid Power Projects

GLENWOOD SPRINGS (AP)—Raphael J. Moses, prominent Colorado water and power attorney, said Tuesday coal producers should support hydroelectric power projects, not oppose them.

Moses, attorney for the Colorado Water Conservation Board and the Colorado-Ute Electric Association of Montrose, addressed the Rocky Mountain Coal Mining Institute.

Colorado-Ute has won approval to build an electricity plant in northwestern Colorado, using coal for power.

Moses predicted a new era in coal development in the Colorado River Basin.

"Coal operators should lead all others in positive, dynamic support of hydroelectric power and transmission line projects, both public and private," he said, "because the coal producers themselves will be the ultimate beneficiaries."

He said the Colorado - Ute's plant will "give a real shot in the arm to the Colorado coal industry and the economy, not only of northwest Colorado, but the entire western slope of Colorado."

William Talman of the "Perry Mason" series coached the boxing team that won the Army's Western Pacific Championship in 1945 at Manila.

"OLD MAN OF THE MOUNTAIN" — Louis Unser, who competed in the Pikes Peak Auto Hill Climb, July 4, for the 32nd time, is congratulated by deputy sheriff Vern Eason while his wife (left) looks on. Louis roared up the 12.42 mile course in 14:17.2 to cop 11th place in the championship car division. Louis is the uncle of Bobby Unser, who won the championship division in record breaking time of 12:30.6 for the sixth successive time and broke his uncle's mark of five straight wins. Louis is still the all-time champion with nine victories. He won his first race in 1934.

Mother Presents Fourth on 4th; Third on 3rd

Mrs. Luther E. Gray, wife of an airman first class at the Air Force Academy, presented her husband with a fourth on the Fourth.

At 19 minutes past midnight on Independence Day, Mrs. Gray gave birth to a boy at the Academy's hospital.

Thirty-two minutes earlier, she had presented her husband with a third on the third when she gave birth to a girl.

The couple already had two children.

Mrs. Gray was taken to the hospital at 10:30 p.m. Wednesday and the twins made their official entrances at 11:47 p.m. and 12:19 a.m.

The girl weighed 5 pounds, 5 ounces, and her brother weighed 5 pounds, 12 ounces.

Volunteers Needed at Post Hospital

Red Cross Gray Ladies and Volunteer Nurse's Aides are badly needed at the Ft. Carson Hospital. Due to summer transfers and leaves, workers are particularly short in the areas of Personal Services, Recreation, Clinics, and Library Services.

Described by the late Gen. George C. Marshall as the "life blood of the American Red Cross", these workers (many of whom must hire baby sitters) devote many hours to shopping, entertaining, assisting doctors and nurses in clinics, plus myriads of other tasks common in hospitals. Their contribution materially assists the doctors, nurses and patients.

Due to the shortage of nurses during summer months, both Gray Ladies and Nurse's Aides will be particularly in demand for the next few weeks. Anyone qualified in these fields is asked to call Miss Marie Roberta, at Ft. Carson ext. 2266.

In addition, anyone desiring to enter a Gray Lady class should also call Miss Roberta. A class is planned for early fall.

Police Prob Obscene Telephone Calls

Police are investigating reports of obscene phone calls made Wednesday to a local woman and her daughter.

The woman told police the calls came all day Wednesday from a Spanish-speaking man who sounded to be in his 20's. She said that as the man talked, she could hear others laughing in the background.

How to cure a sick lawn

–without painful surgery!

PLAGUED BY BALDING SPOTS OF TURF?...SPREADING PATCHES OF DYING GRASS?...MOTH-EATEN SECTIONS OF LAWN? DESPAIR NO LONGER!—ORTHO HAS DEVISED TWO MIRACLE SPRAYS THAT GIVE FAST AND LASTING RELIEF FROM THE MISERIES OF LAWN CARE.

Now, without tedious waiting, without cumbersome spreaders, you can halt the spread of dying grass that used to mean the beginning of the end. ORTHO has just what the doctor ordered... and all you do is spray! But before you proceed with the operation, you must diagnose the case.

DO-IT-YOURSELF DIAGNOSIS

You can do it yourself right from your own lawn chair. First look for insect signs. Cream-colored moths hovering at dusk; orange butterflies flying by day. Or check the grass itself. You may find pencil-sized holes leading down to grass roots or white grubs chewing at the base of the blades. If you find none of these, then the plague is probably lawn disease—any one of five or six that can strike Western lawns in the summer and early fall.

RX: DIBROM

Now for the cures. First a spray that goes down deep... gives fast, fast, fast relief from lawn insects: DIBROM Lawn Spray. Minutes after you spray your lawn, you'll see insects boil up out of the grass and die... before your very eyes. Because DIBROM not only kills lawn insects on contact; its vapor is very irritating to them. Hurrying to escape the irritation, they shoot to the surface, right smack into the DIBROM that does 'em in. Then they dry up and blow away, taking with them the threat of a lush turf turned to tatters. And "they" is the who's who of lawn insects: lawn moth, cutworms, armyworms, wireworms, leafhoppers and thrips.

RX: LAWN FUNGICIDE

For lawn diseases, ORTHO has devised a dandy that takes care of most major diseases that plague Western lawns. Brown patch, melting out, grease spot, dollar spot, fading out and fusarium patch. It's name: ORTHO Lawn Fungicide, with not one but three fungicides in it. It even contains iron so it corrects chlorosis (yellowing of the grass.)

NOW FOR THE OPERATION

It couldn't be simpler. No scalpel. No forceps. No cumbersome spreaders. All you do is spray. You spray DIBROM with the ORTHO Lawn Sprayer; ORTHO Lawn Fungicide with the Spray-Ette. The sprayers do all the diluting automatically so you always apply the right amount. The cost of the operation is reasonable, too. You can treat over 1000 square feet of lawn with ORTHO Lawn Fungicide for less than 75¢ and with DIBROM for less than $1.25.

PROGNOSIS:

A healthy, lush green lawn all summer long, undamaged by insects or disease. The kind of lawn you worked and watered and fertilized to get. Just proves what we always say. Electric Movie Camera Shows Many Features

By BART KINCH

United Press International

The Revere people praise their new camera with compactness and ease of operation two of its major attributes.

The Revere Model 98 is operated by an electric motor which is powered by four penlight 1.5 volt manganese-alkaline batteries.

"The new reflex electric camera was engineered and styled to make movie-taking a truly pleasurable experience," J. C. Landen, director of Marketing for Revere said.

"It has the quality features found in larger, more expensive cameras yet its streamlined design permits it to be carried in a coat pocket or woman's purse."

The camera measures 7 inches by 3¾ by 1½ — or slightly larger than a paperback book.

"We're convinced that the Model 98's compactness and ease of operation are two features that will be particularly appealing to women who now can have the enjoyment of taking motion pictures without having to wait for their husbands to explain complicated settings and so forth," Landen said.

The battery powered motor mechanism, for example, eliminates the need for constantly winding and rewinding and thus provides continuous operation at a uniform, normal speed.

"In fact," Landen said, "you never have to worry about missing some exciting movie footage as in the past when it was necessary to stop shooting every few minutes to rewind the spring motor.

"With the Model 98, it is possible to shoot all 25 feet of film on the spool without stopping for an instant, if desired," he said.

Landen said the tiny batteries used in the camera normally will provide sufficient power for shooting 20 rolls of film.

To make operation as simple as possible, the camera has a reflex (through the lens) viewing system, a universal focus lens with built - in "A" conversion filter which permits outdoor shooting with indoor color film.

The camera's automatic electric eye continuously adjusts the lens to the proper opening for any given light conditions. The electric eye is extra - sensitive to low light and utilizes the new cadmium sulfide cell. The "eye" also automatically shuts off when the camera is not in use to extend the life of the batteries.

In addition, an automatic back-light-stop corrects the lens opening for adverse back lighting and a signal in the viewfinder warns the operator when the light is too poor for taking pictures.

The camera has a manual exposure control for use when desired and in addition to normal start - and - stop photography, it can be locked for continuous running or can be used for single-frame exposures.

The Revere 98 comes equipped with a Wollensak 13mm f-1.8 lens and the suggested retail price is $115.

The General Aniline & Film Corp. of Binghamton, N.Y., has introduced a new Ansco camera outfit featuring the streamlined Cadet II camera in a sturdy, ultra modern luggage - type carrying case.

The complete 20 piece outfit includes the durable carry - all case, 3 rolls of Ansco All - Weather film, 12 flashbulbs, 2 batteries, flash attachment, and the new Cadet II camera which takes 12 pictures on 127 color or black and white film. The outfit sells for less than $14.

CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LEWIS

WASHINGTON — When the Supreme Court meets in October it is slated to hear arguments, and then come up with a decision which should clarify once and for all the question of private property rights as they pertain to racial discrimination by store and hotel owners.

Why then should it not be wise for Congress to put off until 1964 a showdown vote on the issue? This could happen anyway because of the big controversy over the Administration's proposal for a sweeping ban on racial discrimination in public accommodations. But it does appear to make sense to wait until the court produces a guideline.

Since the court failed to act this past session on this key "private property" issue as it pertains to segregation, the Administration's case has been circumscribed.

Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy is doing the best he can under the circumstances to sell this provision of the President's civil right legislation to Congress.

But he must make his pitch basically on the grounds that the proposed nation-wide ban on racial discrimination in public accommodations would have the interstate commerce clause of the Constitution as its basis.

The attorney general must tread most lightly on whether the proposed ban is relevant to the 14th (equal rights) Amendment. This is because the Supreme Court in 1883 held that the powers of Congress under the 14th Amendment did not extend to the elimination of discrimination in privately-owned places of business open to the public.

That decision still stands. Kennedy, under his oath of office, is required to uphold the law. Thus, he cannot put the Administration's racial ban case on the more logical basis of the 14th Amendment without, in effect, flouting a ruling which is still the law of the land.

This is an awkward spot to be on. But the Attorney General testified that "the decision (of 1883) has never been overruled" although "many believe the present vitality of the decision in the civil rights cases (in the 1883 decision) is open to question."

WHATEVER COURT DOES, IT WOULD BE A CLUE

It certainly is open to question in view of the way the Warren court has acted in segregation cases. But it does not necessarily follow that, because the court last session acted as it did in significant sit-in cases, it will similarly crack down when the private property rights cases are decided. It could hem and haw. But whatever it does, Congress would be provided with important legal information that would be most helpful in framing a racial ban which could stand up on Constitutional grounds.

What the court did last May in connection with the sit-ins was to decide that in no city where segregation was a matter of policy or ordnance could Negroes be prosecuted for trying to get service in stores or at lunch counters.

What it is going to do next session is to come up with a decision as to whether a privately-owned restaurant, for example, in a city where there is no discrimination policy or ordnance, can restrict its customers to those of one race.

This is a ticklish question for the court.

OPPOSING OPINIONS ON TWO QUESTIONS

In the sit-in decisions Associate Justice William O. Douglas argued that "when the doors of a business are open to the public the must be open to all regardless of race if partheid is not to be engrained in our public places."

And in reply Associate Justice John Marshall Harlan retorted that freedom of the individual "to use and dispose of his property as he sees fit, to be irrational, arbitrary, capricious, even unjust in his personal relations, are things all entitled to a large measure of protection from governmental interference."

The cases before the court waiting a decision on this private property issue are pretty clear cut. It is difficult to see how the court, when it meets in October, can act on them without either upholding the 1883 decision or tossing it into the ashcan. This is because that decision simply held unconstitutional a federal law (the Sumner Act) which banned segregation in hotels and restaurants. Private discrimination, the court said then in effect, was beyond the scope of the 14th Amendment.

In the cases to be decided at the court's next session no act of Congress is involved, only the court's 1954 school integration decision, because it held in effect that segregation was a denial of the equal protection of the laws under the 14th Amendment.

THE BALTIMORE SIT-IN CASE

Two of the cases suggest clearly the issues involved. One goes back to June 17, 1960, when 12 Negro students were convicted of trespass under Maryland law for refusing to leave a Baltimore restaurant which operated under a policy set by its owner of prohibiting service to Negroes. Baltimore at the time had no ordnance or public policy of discrimination.

The case reached the Supreme Court after the Maryland Court of Appeals held that the right of the Negroes to make a "public protest" did not "impart a right to invade or remain upon the property of private citizens so long as private citizens retain the right to choose their guests or customers."

The other case involves the same trespass statute. A group of Negroes was arrested June 30, 1960, for trying to use the facilities of the "white only" Glen Echo amusement park in Montgomery County, Md.

The trial court held that it was "a smiple case of criminal trespass" until (that is) the Supreme Court should decide "that a Negro has the same right to use private property as was decided in the school cases."

With such cases on the docket, it does seem that Congress is now shadow-boxing on a Constitutional issue that only the court can give shape to.

DESERET

The word "deseret" is associated with the state of Utah. Mormon pioneers called the region Deseret, which means "honeybee" in the Book of Mormon and is a symbol of industry.

No Body Blows Mark First Round in Civil Rights Fight

EDITOR'S NOTE—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy has carried the administration's civil rights bill into its first round on Capitol Hill. Here's a review of the opening skirmishes and a look at the bill's prospects.

By STANLEY MEISLER

WASHINGTON (AP)—No one has struck any bloody blows in the first round of the civil rights battle in Congress.

Two committees have made it clear they will give Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy most, but not all, he asks. He has made it clear he will accept limited changes.

There is nothing surprising in this situation. No one expected the Senate Commerce Committee and the House Judiciary Committee to lay major snags in the way of President Kennedy's civil rights proposals.

The snags will be laid later by other parliamentary groups in Congress. And the battle will get tougher and hotter with a sure filibuster by Southern Democrats.

In this opening round, most of Atty. Gen. Kennedy's testimony and the questioning of him by representatives and senators centered on Title II of the President's bill—a provision to outlaw segregation in restaurants, stores, hotels, theaters and other privately owned enterprises open to the public.

The controversy over this provision centered on two issues:

1. Should the ban on segregation be based on the interstate commerce clause or the 14th Amendment of the Constitution?

2. Should the law set down a cutoff point for exempting public places—say, those doing a business of less than $150,000 a year?

The first indications were that these issues may be important to Republicans and Democrats like Sen. Frank Lausche of Ohio, who feel that the government should not go too far in telling businesses, especially small businesses, what to do.

First indications also showed that the attorney general, who knows the bill must have bipartisan support, was prepared to meet objections on these issues.

But it was not quite clear just exactly where either Kennedy or the committees stood on at least one of the issues—the cutoff point, if any.

And Republicans, particularly in the Senate committee, did not want the responsibility for proposing a cutoff point.

Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., in fact, said he was "getting sick and tired" of what he called attempts to hold Republicans responsible for anything that goes wrong with Kennedy's civil rights program.

The round opened 10 days ago when Atty. Gen. Kennedy began his testimony before the Civil Rights subcommittee of the House Judiciary Committee.

During questioning by Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the committee, Kennedy said, "If Congress decides to do it we would be happy to work with you to set some cut-off lines."

Some committee Republicans led by Rep. John V. Lindsay of New York wanted Kennedy to base the bill only on the 14th Amendment which prohibits anyone from depriving someone of his constitutional rights because of race.

Kennedy, however, preferred to base the bill mostly on the clause that allows Congress to regulate interstate commerec.

The subcommittee is considering all parts of the civil rights proposals, including the sections on voting rights and public school desegregation suits.

Celler expects the subcommittee to finish its hearings in two weeks and recommend a bill to the full committee by Aug. 1. Celler expects the full committee to approve it by Aug. 15.

Observers predict this bill will have a cutoff point for privately owned enterprises but no one seems sure just what the dollar figure will be.

After the bill leaves the Judiciary Committee it will go to the Rules Committee, which has five Southern Democrats, five Northern Democrats and five Republicans. Unless the Republicans join with the Northern Democrats, the Rules Committee, headed by Rep. Howard Smith, D-Va., would probably not send the bill to the floor of the House.

Celler said he would wait two weeks. If the Rules Committee failed to approve the bill, he said, he then would circulate a discharge petition. When 219 representatives sign such a petition, a bill automatically goes to the floor.

The Senate Commerce Committee is not holding hearings on the whole civil rights bill, just Title II. The rest of the bill is in the hands of the Senate Judiciary Committee, headed by Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., a Southern segregationist with not the slightest disposition to hurry on this matter.

Testifying before the Commerce Committee earlier this week, the attorney general said the administration had considered and then given up the idea of putting a $150,000 cut-off in the bill.

Kennedy said Title II is not intended to apply to tiny places where customers have a social relationship. He gave as example a rooming house with two, perhaps three boarders.

He listed other exemptions as bowling alleys, pool halls, most laundries and dry cleaners, physicians, lawyers, and barbershops that don't serve too many interstate travelers.

But, on the question of a cutoff, Kennedy warned the committee to write provisions that would "sharpen definitions, rather than to create loopholes or water down the bill."

Observers believe the committee is not fully satisfied with the bill but wants to put some cutoff into it. Members want to exempt small places but, because the issue is a moral one, don't know how. One prevailing question: "How can you say, 'Some people can discriminate and some people can't?'"

Mrs. Dianne Anderson was hostess to the Conversational Bridge Club June 26.

Jerry Gafford, of Chipita Stables, was lead horseman for a group of 16 horseback riders on a moonlight treck over a trail above the Chipita Ranch Sunday evening. The hours ride ended in a meadow, by a stream, where a steak fry was prepared, with western music furnished by Lew Pettit on the guitar. Mrs. Jerry Gafford went ahead of the party, carrying supplies on a pack horse. A group of visitors from Illinois were in the party, with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Giles of Cascade Mel Patterson and Mrs. Jan Pettit.

The first summer issue of the Ute Pass Echo will be ready for distribution at all the usual places on Friday July 5.

SNOW ON FOURTH

SURFSIDE, Fla. (UPI) — This resort town located just north of Miami Beach had a different kind of Independence Day celebration. Kids battled with snowballs in the near-90 heat and the town crowned a snow queen.

City officials borrowed a snow machine and cranked out 50 tons of snow along the beach. About 2,000 kids broke through a not-very-tight police line at the celebration and the snowball fight began. A policeman, naturally, was the first to get hit.

OF COURSE THE DEAH COUNT WAS PENNILESS. BUT YOUR FATHAH WAS VERY WEALTHY. THE COUNT WOULD HAVE SETTLED FOR A REASONABLE SUM!

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — W. M. Shackleford, who has been wanting to learn to fly since he was six years old, finally did—at the age of 40. He mastered flying in five hours.

He began taking lessons at 8:30 a.m. and at 2:30 p.m., after an hour lunch break, he had completed his solo requirements; a total of three landings.

Instructor Jimmy D. Johnson praised Shackleford, chief of the city police department photo lab, as "the best student I ever had."

SCIENTISTS SEEK ANSWER TO EAGLE'S DEMISE—The bald eagle, America's national bird, is in danger of becoming extinct. Scientists at the Patuxent Wildlife Research Center, near Laurel, Md., are conducting tests to find out why. The investigation so far has sought to determine whether pesticides are the cause of the bird's passing. (AP Wirephoto)

133 'Billion Dollar Clubs' Counted in U.S.

By PETER T. EARLE

NEW YORK (UPI) — The annual United Press International corporate roll call finds a record 133 concerns had sufficient assets at the end of 1962 to rank them in the elite "billion dollar Club."

Ten concerns crossed the billion dollar asset mark for the first time to take their places with the nations corporate giants.

The new members are National City Bank of Cleveland, International Paper, Eastman Kodak, National Life & Accident, People's Gas, Consolidated Natural Gas, Radio Corp. of America, Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit, Union Bank of Los Angeles and Frankling National Bank of Mineola, N.Y.

The 1962 roster, taken as a whole, had record combined, total assets of $416,293,000,000 (b).

Although this year heard many giants still complaining about their profit margins, it was a higher year for both sales and profits, and the second excellent one in a row for growth of assets—perhaps the truest measure of corporate wealth. Of the total membership, 117 managed asset increases and only 16 reported asset losses.

Those showing declines, in order of size, were U.S. Steel, du Pont, Pennsylvania Railroad, New York Central Railroad, Bethlehem Steel, First National Bank of Boston, Shell Oil, Investors Mutual, Massachusetts Investors Trust, Westinghouse, Wellington Fund, Alcoa, United Funds, B&O Railroad, Republic Steel and Dow Chemical.

Losses in the steels and railroads mirrored the chronic profit squeeze of recent years in these industries. Asset declines in all four of the nation's largest mutual funds reflected the sharp stock market break of early 1962 which temporarily undermined public confidence in securities.

The big features of the year were among the largest concerns. AT&T increased its hold on first place, assets of the world's biggest company topping $30 billion for the first time.

Meanwhile, Chase Manhattan Bank bumped Equitable Life out of sixth place by scoring a larger assets increase than the insurance company.

The top 10 in order at the end of 1962 were AT&T, Metropolitan Life, Prudential Life, Bank of America, Jersey Standard, Chase Manhattan, Equitable Life, First National City, General Motors and New York Life.

Other significant changes near the head of the list were Ford Motor Co. which moved into 14th position ahead of Morgan-Guaranty through its acquisition of Philco, and Chemical Bank-New York Trust which replaced U.S. Stee in 16th place.

Foreign corporations are not included in the roster and few would qualify. Only the Royal Dutch Shell Oil combine and the Unilever food group would rate places along with British Petroleum, Imperial Chemical Industries, British Tobacco, the Italian Fiat complex, Dutch Philips, an electrica equipment manufacturer, plus Aluminium Ltd. and Internationa Nickel of Canada.

Following are the billion dollar companies with their 1962 and 196 assets (000,000 omitted).

Candidate in Illinois Favors Goldwater

CHICAGO (AP) — Charles H. Percy, the only announced candidate for the Republican nomination for governor of Illinois, says Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., would carry the state in a presidential election.

"I would support him," Percy, 43, who is making his first bid for public elective office, said in a taped radio program.

SPENT QUIET DAY

JAMESTOWN, Tenn. (UPI) — Ailing World War I hero Alvin C. York spent a quiet Independence Day at his farm home in the rugged Cumberland Mountains Thursday.

A number of visitors dropped by to wish the Medal of Honor winner good health, but York did not see most of them. He had some soft cereal about 9:30 a.m. and slept until past nightfall.

York, who is credited with killing 20 German soldiers and capturing 132 others in the Argonne Forest on Oct. 8, 1918, has been ill for a number of years.

Israel's population has more than tripled since 1948, rising from 785,000 to 2,300,000.

Lawyers Given Mixed Hearing By U.S. Public

By WARD CANNEL

NEW YORK (NEA) — While the rest of us have been sipping cholesterol and driving electric toothbrushes and generally living off the continuing prosperity of the land, the legal profession has not been keeping pace.

According to the results of a just-released, in-depth survey of the lawyer situation in the United States today, the legal profession lags considerably behind the other professions in terms of its take-home percentage of the national income.

Why? Because, finds a motivational study of public attitudes and law office management in Missouri:

Legal services are not hired frequently enough — some 40 per cent of the people have never even been to a lawyer once.

The legal profession is not as highly regarded in the community frequently as, say, teaching or dentistry, even though 93 per cent of the people who have used lawyers are quite satisfied.

And while television series about lawyers have done a lot of good for the profession's public image, there is still a widespread and deep-seated suspicion about legal ethics, fees and, in fact, the whole system of law and trial by jury.

Now, there is nothing really new in all of this. Humanity has been at odds with the law since long before Moses came down from Mt. Sinai, and at swords' points with lawyers long before Jonathan Swift or Charles Dickens roasted them on a literary spit.

But not until now has any inside group like a state Bar Association made a public attempt to find out why, in an attempt to change the picture.

And from the looks of the surtion have uncovered is paradox within paradox, wrapped up in enigma.

To wit:

More than 30 per cent of those surveyed feel that they have less than an even chance of getting a fair trial, although those who have never been in a court as either a litigant or a witness have a slightly higher opinion of court justice than those who have been involved with the law and its advocates.

About three-quarters of those surveyed feel that their race, economic status and social position have a direct effect on the standard of justice available to them.

On the other hand, representatives of the Missouri Bar survey team say, there is strong evidence that a significant number of the lay public deep down questions the whole basis of United States law.

Interviews in depth, the surveyors say, would show that a startling number of people hold that a man is guilty. until proved innocent and that theBillofRights—cent and that the Bill of Rights — especially freedom of the press — is a dangerous code.

Deep, dark public attitudes toward the law bubble up in the Missouri Bar-Prentice Hall questions about legal loopholes and their use.

Upwards of 30 per cent of those answering are uncertain or opposed to the use of legal technicalities in the defense of criminals. But when, hypothetically, survey respondents go to court, the use of a loophole in their own defense is another matter. As a defense in income tax litigation it is regarded as above reproach.

In the relationship of the layman to his lawyer, the survey hits what is probably the biggest reef that bars today's lawyer from his just share of the national income.

While half of the people who go to court at any given time lose, almost everybody who has used a lawyer is satisfied with the legal advice he got.

However, the user of lawyers' services rates the reputation of his own lawyer far above the reputation of lawyers in general. In other words, while the user rates the professional ability of lawyers as high, he rates the status of legal profession as low — frequently lower than banker, clergy, dentist, doctor and teacher.

And while 85 per cent of the lawyers questioned said that the profession is highly respected in the community, more than half don't know why, and one fifth have considerable reservation about that community respect.

Why the community feels as it does is made up of several component suspicions.

For one thing, only 36 per cent of the men in the street feel that the code of legal ethics is adequately enforced (only 39 per cent of lawyers answering agree that it is).

Significantly, the representing of criminals does not harm a lawyer's public reputation. But his having lunch or being seen with an opposing counsel does, despite the obvious fact that such friendships — often started in law school — can gain information beneficial to a lawyer's client.

To be added is the layman's distrust of trial by jury and the legal theatricalities he fears to be crucial in swaying jury opinion.

What we want in a lawyer, it would appear from this survey, is an honest, scrupulous, courageous, aloof advocate — sworn to the law but absolutely partisan on our behalf.

It's going to be a hard job to
It's going to be a hard job to alter that image.

Three-Second Meeting Record Set by Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate set a record today by meeting for just three seconds solely to record an adjournment to Tuesday noon.

It was a token session arranged to get through the post Fourth of July holiday and weekend and still comply with the rule forbidding a recess of more than three days, not counting Sundays, unless the Senate gets formal permission of the House.

The dodo, a type of bird that could not fly, has been extinct since 1681.
